COUNCIL MAY FIX NEW POLICY FOR STREET LIGHTS

Elaborate System to Help Growth of Glendale, Is Under Consideration

OUT of the protest of the Brand Boulevard Improvement Association against the proposed plan of the City Council to assess the cost of lighting Brand boulevard and Broadway to a district, may be developed an entirely new policy of lighting the city, it was intimated at the meeting of the council last night. Ever since the ornamental lights were installed on Brand and Broadway, more than ten years ago, the city has paid the cost of lighting, under a verbal agreement made with property owners at the time the system was put in.

And the Brand Boulevard Improvement association is insisting that the council continue to carry out the agreement. Headed by Mattison B. Jones, a delegation from the association appeared at the council meeting last night to vigorously protest against any move that would break the agreement. For more than two hours the question was argued with the result that no formal action beyond a continuance, was taken by the council, but—

Out of the suggestions and counter suggestions it may be that the council will plan an elaborate lighting system to include Colorado, Los Feliz, Glendale avenue and San Fernando road, the cost of installing the ornamental posts to be undertaken by the benefited taxpayers and the cost of lighting to be paid for out of the general fund of the municipality.

Or it may be that the council will decide not to put into effect an elaborate lighting plan unless property owners agree to pay all the cost of installing posts and, too, a portion of the cost of the "juice."

As spokesman for the delegation from the association, Mr. Jones asserted that the lighting system was largely responsible

This morning, Wallace related, another man entered his room in a cheap hotel, looked at him and then cursed the captors, saying they had the wrong man. Wallace says he was then released.

Preliminary Cost of Subway To Glendale Amounts to Two Million Dollars

Rights-of-way and terminal site have been acquired by the Pacific Electric railway at the cost of nearly $2,000,000 for the construction of its Glendale line subway, according to a statement made public today by Vice President D. W. Pontius.

The new tunnel under Bunker Hill from the Pacific Electric's station on Hill street will take the Glendale cars from Sixth street and will also provide a new route for the Hollywood and San Fernando valley lines by way of Figueroa and Second streets to Glendale boulevard and continuing along the Glendale line to Sunset boulevard.

The total cost of this improvement will be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000, of which $145,000 was paid recently for school property on Olive street which will give way to additional station room at the Los Angeles terminal. Another $500,000 has been spent for tunnel rights-of-way, in addition to a million dollars invested some time ago in the project.

In a statement to the public, Mr. Pontius said the Pacific Electric is doing a real work to relieve congestion on Los Angeles city streets. It has purchased 50 cars for the Hollywood line at a cost of $1,000,000 which will run in trains through the tunnel when completed.

Glendale service also will be materially bettered with the tunnel connection to downtown Los Angeles, as many minutes are now lost in fighting the traffic along the narrow lane in Sixth street.

French Loan to Poles Angers Administration

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16.—Amazement was expressed in official circles here today over the action of the French government in making a loan of 40,000,000 francs to Poland at the very moment when her spokesmen are assuring the United States that French finances are in such bad shape as to preclude any arrangement for settling the French debt of $3,500,000,000 to the United States.

The news came as an unpleasant shock to administration officials and may conceivably lead to renewed pressure upon France for an explanation of policy concerning her debt to the United States, upon which interest payments are not being made.

CREATION OF REVOLVING FUND FOR MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS IS ONE OF PROPOSED FEATURES

Various Sections Will Be Placed Before Voters for Approval at Election to Be Held on Tuesday, April 10

CHARTER amendments were considered last night by the City Council, which approved several of them and decided to put them up for ratification at the coming municipal election, April 10. These were drawn up by City Attorney Hartley Shaw and some of them merely make the charter less ambiguous. A revolving fund, which provides for capital with which the city administration may do street work instead of letting each separate job out under contract, is the subject of the principal suggested change in the charter.

"The council may, by special taxes levied or by bonds issued in conformity to the provisions of this charter," states the amendment, "create or increase a revolving fund to be used in financing the cost of work done by the city under the provisions of this section. When any work has been paid for out of such revolving fund, the price received by the city therefor shall be paid into and become a part of such revolving fund. The principal and interest of any assessments and bonds received therefor shall, upon payment thereof, be placed in such revolving fund. Any profit made by the city from the doing of such work, and any interest received on any assessment or bonds may be used to pay the principal or interest of any bond issue by which such revolving fund is created or increased."

Work By City

Another section of this amendment provides: "Assessments made under authority hereof shall be levied upon property in districts benefited by the said work and improvements. No ordinance passed under authority hereof shall prevent the council from proceeding under general laws of the state of California.

"The council may authorize any officer of the city to bid for and contract in the name of the city of Glendale to do by sub-contract any part of any public work and improvement aforesaid when the same is let by contract to a contractor other than the city. Whenever any work is done by the city under the provisions of this section, the council may authorize the employment of such laborers and other employes as may be necessary in addition to the regular employes of the city.

Must Have Funds

"Before the city shall undertake or contract to do any work under this section, an estimate shall be made by the officer or employer in charge of the expenses to be incurred. No such work shall be undertaken by the city unless the controller shall first certify that there are funds available to meet such estimated expenses."

Property owners must keep vacant lots free from weeds and rubbish under the provisions of the final section of this amendment: "The council may, by ordinance, adopt a procedure for the removal of dirt, rubbish, weeds which may injure or endanger neighboring property and for making an enforcing assessment against property benefited or affected or from which said removal

L. A. SOCIETY MAN SHOT TO DEATH AT HIS HOME

Cook Finds Body; No Trace Of Slayer or Reason For Mystery Crime

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—An unidentified assassin armed with a sawed-off shotgun waylaid Earl Remington, 36, wealthy Los Angeles society and business man and aviation enthusiast, and killed him early today as he was about to enter his home.

The murder was discovered by Charity Dawson, cook at the Remington home. While preparing breakfast she glanced through the window and saw Remington's body in the driveway. Her loud screams aroused the family.

Remington had driven his car into the driveway and had stopped at the garage door to leave the car there for the night. He apparently had walked to the rear of the car and was opposite the kitchen window when he encountered his assailant.

Hears No Quarrel

According to Mrs. L. Betts, a neighbor, who heard Remington arrived home shortly after midnight, no conversation preceded the slaying. She heard the shots and thought they were backfire from the automobile.

Remington had made an effort to protect himself from the shots of his assailant, for a leather portfolio he was carrying was held closely to his breast and was punctured by two bullet holes.

Not Cause for Alarm

The fact that Remington's absence from home over night was not a cause for alarm was explained to the police by Mrs. Remington.

"Mr. Remington telephoned me about 3:30 Thursday afternoon, saying he was going to his ranch near Chino," she said. "When he did not return home I believed he was there."

Mrs. Remington was a Kentucky beauty, her people still living in that state, it is said. Remington was not her first husband.

North Pacific Storm Toll Worst In 25 Years; Property Loss Runs Into Millions

COAST GUARDS SEARCH FOR TRACES OF MISSING CRAFT

Gales Take Number of Lives and Cause Heavy Damage; Backbone of Storm Breaks

SEATTLE, Feb. 16.—A wireless report to the harbor radio station here today said Esteban Point radio station on Vancouver island reported the captain and crew of the missing Tuscan Prince, British freighter, lost in yesterday's storm, were awaiting orders from their agents. At the same time the naval radio reported the vessel had not been located.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—While the United States coast guard cutters Snohomish and Algonquin searched the rocky coast of Vancouver island off the British Columbia coast for trace of wreckage of the big British freighter Tuscan Prince, one of the victims of the two-day gale which took the worst shipping toll in twenty-five years in the north Pacific, the vessel's agents endeavored vainly today to confirm reports of a rescue of her captain and forty-two men.

Fear grew that the reports of the rescue of the Tuscan Prince's crew were based on confusion of wireless messages which had told of the rescue of the crew of the Santa Rita.

The last definite word from the vessel was at 5:24 yesterday morning when her wireless went dead as she started her S. O. S. call, winding up with the operator's frantic comment:

"We are going to drown."

Even the general location of the wreck was in doubt. Reports to her agents here placed the wreck on Vancouver island but Victoria said this was uncertain and added the vessel may have hit on the Washington or Oregon coast line. She was en route to Seattle from San Francisco.

Loss Is $4,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—The great storm which took the worst toll of shipping in the north Pacific in twenty-five years, was reported subsiding today.

Three big vessels were complete wrecks, one was burned to the water's edge, and possibly a fifth went on the rocks. A complete toll may not be known for several days. More than a dozen vessels were in the storm area off the Washington and British Columbia coasts and not all have made port or reported.

Although reports to Swayne and Hoyt, agents for the owners of the British freighter Tuscan Prince, stated Captain J. Childers and his crew of forty-two men had been saved and landed on Vancouver island, the details of the rescue were obscure and some fears were felt that the rescue of the crew of the Santa Rita might have been confused with the Tuscan Prince.

The property loss was today estimated in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. If the report of the rescue of the crew of the Tuscan Prince proves correct, marine men said it could be regarded almost as a miracle that there was no loss of life as the Santa Rita and the Tuscan Prince went ashore on extremely isolated points on Vancouver island.

Rescue of the crew of the Santa Rita was made possible by the heroism of A. Hogart, who swam from his ship to the beach through mountaincus seas to rig a breeches line.

The rescue of the crew of the burning ship Nika was accomplished by the United States coast guard cutter Snohomish amid giant seas and as the last man was taken off in a breeches buoy, the Nika was completely enveloped in flames.

Fate Not Known

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The fate of the Italian freighter Moncenisio and the five masted schooner Friendship, both of whom were reported sinking after being caught in the terrific gale that is sweeping the Atlantic coast, has not been determined, the naval communication office here reported today.

Ships have rushed to their aid, but no information either from the distressed vessels or their rescuers has been received.

THIEVES PLUNDER RESIDENCE IN EAGLE ROCK

Amateur Crooks Blamed by Officers for Robbery of Vacant Home

The home of F. W. Vandenberg, 139 South Pearl avenue, Eagle Rock, was looted by a brace of thieves some time between the hours of 6 o'clock Tuesday night and 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. The family was away from home at the time and the fact that the house had been entered was discovered by Mrs. Moore, who lives at 138 Pearl, directly across the street from the Vandenberg home.

Mrs. Moore had started for early mass when she noticed that the front door of the Vandenberg home was standing open. She called another neighbor and the two investigated. They found the back door open as well and evidence that the place had been ransacked from kitchen to front room. They immediately notified a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vandenberg, who lives in Los Angeles, and the Eagle Rock officers. No definite clew was left, but the opinion of the officers and that of the neighbors, is that the work was done by amateurs, probably boys.

Boy Loses Heavily

Mr. and Mrs. Vendenberg had spent the night at Hermosa but were notified and hurried home. They found that the burglars had taken the owner's best suit, a high power rifle, shot gun, camera, silk shirts and other clothing. The heaviest loser appears to have been Earl Hansen, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vendenberg, who is making his home with them. Two of his best silk shirts, size 14, were taken, as well as other articles of wearing apparel. He also owned one of the guns. The boy feels the loss keenly.

One reason that is given for suspecting the thieves to have been boys or young men is the fact that much of the stuff missing belongs to young Hansen. His clothing would fail to fit a full grown man.

A suggestion has been made that the persons entering this home were the same that burglarized the Hunt & Jones realty office a few nights ago. Neither job appears to have been that of experts, say the officers.

Stolen Diamond Leads To Arrest of Culprit

A residence on York boulevard, Highland district, Eagle Rock, was entered Monday night and a quantity of jewelry stolen. The robber simply walked in through the front door and helped himself, as there was nobody at home. The same day a negro was arrested for the theft and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Among the articles of jewelry taken was a fine ring set with a sparkling stone. The negro couldn't resist the temptation, and slipped it on his finger. This proved to be his Waterloo as a plain clothes man spied the man and the ring at about the same time. Part of the jewelry was recovered but the colored man had disposed of a part.

PLAYERS PRESENT STRONG COMEDY PERFORMANCE

'Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh' Is Approved by Audience At Two Shows

A full house greeted the Eagle Rock Community Players at the second performance of "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," at the Central school auditorium Thursday evening in testimony to the excellent reception given the night before when the three-act comedy was shown in the initial performance.

Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer had the title role and her interpretation of the difficult character portrayed showed the result of excellent training and a thorough understanding of her subject. She assmued the part with an ease that was surprising to those who witnessed her acting for the first time. Mrs. Fischer also directed the play.

Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison, as the old maid sister of Justin Rawson, master of the house, and Mrs. Eleanor Terry, as Mrs. de Salle, each had a most difficult and prominent part and came out with flying colors.

Milton H. Berry, Jr., as Peter Swallow, maker of tombstones, had the house on tiptoe from the moment he appeared upon the scene, but he met his Waterloo in Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh, his old sweetheart, when he sought to prove she was other than what she represented herself to be.

Ability Is Shown

Edmund Brady, in Anthony Rawson, the elder scion of the wealthy and proud old Rawson family, carried the part to a degree of perfection that demonstrated his ability to appear with credit before any critical audience.

Mrs. Ethel Woodhouse made a big hit in her interpretation of the character Nina, housemaid at the Rawson home, the consensus of opinion being that she fitted the part perfectly.

Miss Dorothy Squire, as Violet de Salle, Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh's younger sister, and Wallace F. Busse, as Geoffrey Rawson, the younger son of the family, held the attention of the audience and the sympathy, as well, as their love affair developed.

Philip W. Blumer, as Justin Rawson, head of the house; Larry Wilson, as Leavitt; Marjorie Morris as Mrs. Leavitt; Samuel Ratliff, as Kitson, the butler, supported in a very creditable manner the heavier casts of the play. A home-talent orchestra furnished excellent music between acts. The reception given the home players for the two performances of Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh was very gratifying and will encourage them for the next production, which will be given in the near future.

COUNCIL MAY FIX NEW POLICY FOR STREET LIGHTS

for Glendale's growth, that the trustees and other city officials of more than ten years ago sought from the property owners the installation of the lights under the verbal contract that no charge would ever be made for the "juice," and with such undertaking the property owners installed the system and now most seriously object to the agreement being broken.

Council Agrees

O. A. Lane, M. W. Chandler, Charles B. Guthrie, W. E. Evans, and others, also spoke along the same lines and members of the council agreed that "morally" the city was bound to follow out the policy established years ago for the Brand and Broadway lighting system.

Mr. Guthrie declared the lights are a big selling feature for Glendale realty and suggested that more ornamental lights be installed in other sections of the city, the cost of the "juice" to be paid for out of the municipality's general fund.

"As usual, Mr. Guthrie just beat me to it—I was going to suggest the same thing," said Councilman Dwight W. Stephenson.

City Benefits

The councilman continued to the effect that it was no more than right that the entire city pay the cost of lighting the city, for, he said, the whole city benefits. He was opposed, he said, to having the public service department bear the cost of the lighting. He also suggested that Colorado, Los Feliz, Glendale avenue and San Fernando road be made into "white ways" and the general fund of the city support the expense after property owners on the thoroughfares benefited had installed the posts.

The suggestion seemed to meet with approval of other members of the council and, on motion of Councilman Sam Davis, the question of future policy regarding Brand and Broadway was continued until next Friday night for decision. In the meantime, however, it was stated that the council would meet and determine, if possible, a definite policy regarding lighting and be prepared to announce it at Friday night's meeting.

No "Scrap of Paper"

Mr. Jones, before leaving the meeting, pointed out that while the property owners did not even have a "scrap of paper" to show for the old agreement, there were a number of witnesses to the contract and he felt sure, he said, that the council would respect the "moral" agreement.

"I was city attorney at the time and there is no question but that such an agreement was reached," said Mr. Evans.

Rough estimates as to the cost of lighting the city on an elaborate scale were made at the city hall and it said that the total would be close to $30,000 yearly.

COUNCIL APPROVES SITE PICKED FOR EXPOSITION

Elaborate Water Carnival Is Added to Program of Entertainments

the vote is beginning to pile up for the various favorite daughters in a manner reminiscent of a hot political campaign, when every state is presenting its particular pets to the voters of the country.

The fashion show that has been inaugurated as a part of the exposition is taking definite shape, and this promises to be one of the most notable events of the entire ten days, as the latest word in modish apparel will be shown by some of the leading firms of the state.

Forty colored dancers have been enlisted to compete in the cake-walking contests that will be staged throughout the time the exposition is in progress, and special prizes have been hung up for this and for the other events that are on the program. These prizes will be displayed in the window of the Arthur H. Dibbern jewelry store on North Brand.

Drawing for Auto

Visitors to the exposition on the closing day, June 3, will each be given a ticket that will entitle them to participate in the drawing that is to be held for the automobile that will be given away by the management.

The action of the city council last night in approving the selection of the site for the exposition at North Brand, between Doran and Lexington, meets with the approval of the various committee members who are working to make Glendale's exposition one of the high lights of commercial progress in Southern California.

Judge Refuses Divorce Decree to Dead Woman

DENVER, Feb. 16.—District Judge Hersey declined to grant a final decree of divorce to a dead woman here. The deceased, Mrs. Cornelia F. Kellogg, was granted a preliminary decree shortly before her death last October from Cecil N. Kellogg, a salesman, believed to be living in Texas. J. W. Kelly, attorney for Mrs. Kellogg in the preliminary hearing, asked the court to sign a final decree in her favor "to clear up formalities in connection with the case."

It is believed the effort to secure the final decree was made in order to exclude Kellogg as an heir to his wife's property.

Urges Stamp Holders To Cash 1918 Series

Redemption of the War Savings stamps of the 1918 issue is still being carried on by the Glendale postoffice, but there are still a large number of holders of the stamps who have failed to cash in on them.

It is pointed out by Assistant Postmaster George Hallett that the 1918 issue of green stamps ceased to draw interest at the end of last December, and no further increase in their value is to be allowed, so that the holders of these stamps have nothing to gain by holding on to them any longer.

Forms are now available for use in cashing the registered stamps, and the postoffice officials here have plenty of funds at their disposal to redeem both the registered and unregistered stamps.

Clubwoman Inherits Legacy of 2 Million

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Friends were today congratulating Mrs. John Wesley Tomblin, active in women's club circles, on the confirmation by her of the statement that she would come into a legacy of $2,000,000 on the eve of her wedding to August E. Rickenbacker, a rich manufacturer of Connecticut. The wedding is set for February 28.

The money, Mrs. Tomblin said, had been placed in escrow for her in an eastern bank by a former husband to whom she was secretly married, and which marriage was secretly annulled.

The gift at this time, she says, conforms to the promise she made her secret husband never to reveal their marriage.

Mrs. Tomblin is the widow of a former member of the Chicago stock exchange.

We can't name the twelve greatest women in America. But we suspect that the other eleven have red hair, also.

STOCKS, MARKETS

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Many of the leading issues were in demand again in the last few minutes of trading in the stock market today, some of them touching new high levels for this movement. Baldwin was the chief feature, crossing 141, the first time since 1921.

Cosden Oil touched 60. The motor stocks held steady around the earlier high levels. There was a better demand for the railroad group, Reading being active around 81. U. S. Steel held up around 107⅝.

In Grain Markets

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Moderate strength was displayed by the grain markets today. Wheat, after opening higher, reacted in subsequent trading but came back again and closed strong. Foreign news, aside from the higher Liverpool market, did not appear to have any particular bearing on the Chicago market.

Corn looked stronger than wheat during the early trading but later both corn and oats followed the trend of wheat.

Wheat closed ⅝@⅞c higher than the finish of yesterday; corn ¼c up and oats steady. Provisions finished firm.

SOCIAL EVENTS

P. T. A. Entertains

Fathers' night at the Columbus avenue school last night drew over 250 people of the neighborhood and was voted one of the most successful entertainments ever given in the schoolhouse.

Miss Blossom Moore gave a charming costume dance; Howard Kemp delivered a patriotic reading; Mr. Burton, one of the fathers, sang; Miss Evelyn Bimone rendered a piano solo; a group of sixth-grade children from Miss Bigelow's room presented an original story, as an example of their language work; Gladys Linzere, Julia Benson, Ethel Davis and William McPherson, from Miss Berry's room, put on a patriotic debate; Miss Elsie Church, one of the teachers, sang, her participation being much appreciated by the women of the Parent-Teacher association; Miss Dixie Lane contributed a pretty whistling solo, and Mr. Burton closed the program with the singing of "A Perfect Day."

Refreshments of home-baked cake and delicious punch were then served in the cafeteria room, Mrs. A. P. Boyle in charge, after which the meeting was brought to a close by everyone joining in the anthem, "America."

Boys Are Guests

The fifteenth birthday of Glenn Cunningham, son of Mrs. Eva J. Cunningham, of 114 North Orange street, was celebrated Tuesday night, when Mrs. Cunningham gave a dinner party for twelve.

The dinner was served in four courses, the final one being the serving of a large cake, lighted by fifteen red candles.

After dinner out-door games were enjoyed.

Glenn was the recipient of many nice gifts.

Those helping him to celebrate his birthday were Charles and Lyman Bosserman, Robert Ayars, Warren Rigdon, Lynn Criswell, Freeman Brant, Gordon Bevins, Charles Pratt, Stanley Livingstone, John Hammersley and Ralph Cunningham.

Direct Election of President Is Urged

U. S. REFUSES TO CEDE OIL RIGHTS

Strong Insistence on Open Door Policy Continued By Government

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — "Too much oil on troubled waters," is the way the cynical diplomat diagnosed the Lausanne conference situation when the statesmen gathered there were at the height of their difficulties over the question of Mesopotamia.

Certainly, from the point of view of the American government at least, petroleum was among the most important of all the matters discussed there. Secretary of State Hughes is on record as favoring the freedom of the Straits, protection of racial and religious minorities in Turkey, and preservation of American rights under the so-called capitulations. But he is just as strongly on record for the maintenance of the Open Door, or equal opportunity for American capital in the development of the natural resources of former Turkish territory.

American Bombshell

Ambassador Child, the American "observer" at Lausanne, threw a bombshell into the conference when he stated America's attitude toward Mosul, the rich oil region of Mesopotamia. For more than three years the United States has been waging a fight against European diplomacy for the right to participate in the development of the Mesopotamia fields. It began during the regime of President Wilson, when Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby indulged in some rather heated exchanges with Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, regarding the principle of the Open Door as applied to British mandated territory in Asia Minor.

American connection with the oil fields of Asia Minor goes back even further, however. In 1899 Rear Admiral Chester, U. S. N., was sent to Constantinople in command of the battleship Kentucky to demand compensation for property of American missionaries, which had been destroyed in the Armenian massacres of 1896. On his return to America he interested certain American financiers in the possibility of obtaining concessions from Turkey. Going back to Constantinople as the agent of a powerful group, he obtained promises for extensive railway and mining privileges in Asia Minor, and the right to prospect for oil in Armenia and Mesopotamia. The fall of Abdul Hamid in 1909 interrupted the negotiattions, and the Chester interests have since experienced difficulty in establishing their claims.

German Hope Thwarted

Then came the discovery by the Germans of oil in paying quantities near Mosul. They reported the discovery to Berlin, it is alleged, but concealed it from the Porte, and the deception being discovered their hopes of concessions were blasted. Later, however, German and British groups, with the support of their governments, began negotiations, and in 1913 came to some sort of a tentative understanding with the Porte.

The chief argument advanced by Lord Curzon against the American claim for participation in the development of the Mesopotamian oil fields was based upon the alleged concessions of this Turkish Petroleum company, the validity of which has been consistently disputed by the American government.

At the San Remo conference in 1921 the German shares were assigned to the French government. Whether it has held them or disposed of them to French investors is not known. Immediately upon the announcement of the partition of the oil rights of Mesopotamia the American government entered a vigorous protest, urging that, although the United States had not been at war with Turkey, America had contributed to the common victory over the Central Powers and the United States therefore was entitled to "an equal opportunity" in the development of mandated territories ceded by Turkey.

When Hughes assumed office he pressed the Open Door principle with the utmost vigor, and after some delay secured an "agreement in principle" from the British. It is understood that there now exist no serious differences of opinion between the United States and Great Britain on the subject.

Nest in Cash Register Is Mouse's Death Trap

NORRISTOWN, Feb. 16. — A mouse which built its nest in a cash register of the Keasby and Madison company, at Ambler, near here, caused a hurry call to the offices of the concern here for an expert to fix it.

When a clerk in the store rang up the first sale in the morning the cash register emitted a series of strange sounds and refused to print the usual customer's receipt. So far as the clerk could see the machine was O. K., so he decided to phone for an expert.

Before the local man arrived, however, a mouse was discovered in a back compartment of the cash drawer and later forced from its hiding place in the mechanism and killed.

The grocery company has been in the habit of leaving the drawer open at night, so that if burglars entered the store they would not break the register to get money which it did not contain.

'The Covered Wagon' Plays To Capacity Audience at T. D. & L. Theatre

"The Covered Wagon," a James Cruze production for Paramount of Emerson Hough's Saturday Evening Post story, had its preview at the T. D. & L. Sid Grauman, who will exhibit "The Covered Wagon" in its Los Angeles premiere, was among those present. Beyond doubt it will be one of the year's few great films if Glendale playgoers may be accepted as a criterion.

GLENDALE LOSES GAMES, 25 TO 28

Basketball Squad Drops One To Huntington Park Team at U. S. C.

Glendale post lost second place in the American Legion basketball league to Huntington Park by three points, in a close race at the U. S. C. gymnasium last night, the final tally being Huntington Park 28, Glendale 25.

The game was played as a preliminary to the clash between Santa Monica and Pasadena for the championship of Southern California. The former won this contest decisively, the score at the end of the final whistle standing Santa Monica 43, Pasadena 13.

The victors will journey to Sacramento soon, to play for the championship of the state.

Next Wednesday, February 21, the Glendale Legionnaires will meet the Y. M. C. A. basket tossers, in the High school gym, for the last game of the season.

Veteran Arbiter Will Open Umpire's School

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 16.—A school for umpires will be established here by Lou Fyfe, veteran arbiter in the Michigan-Ontario League, who says he is satisfied an umpire should be "educated."

Fyfe claims umpires in the American and National leagues have placed the stamp of approval on his idea and offered their aid.

T. J. Halligan, president of the Michigan-Ontario League, has given Fyfe the privilege of using a section of the league offices here as a schoolroom for the instruction of students.

Between 25 and 50 students will enroll in the school as soon as more definite plans are consummated, it is expected. They will be drilled in discipline on the field, taught rules of the game, what position to take when working single and double and other things which an umpire should know.

"I've seen some umpires," says Fyfe, "who didn't know any more what to do when certain plays cropped out than does a grade schoolboy."

Whether the art of diplomacy and how to dodge a pop bottle gracefully will be taught was not learned.

Every prospective student must first pass an eye test, says Fyfe.

In her suit for divorce based on cruelty, Mrs. Beardsley submitted the above invitation as a novel idea of her husband. The party was held and a good time had by all, she said.

SEX WARFARE IS MYTH, IS CLAIM

Noted British Writer Says Both Sexes Are Equal In Importance

By F. A. WRAY
For International News Service

LONDON, Feb. 16.—"Sex warfare is a mere myth," says Edward Cecil, noted British writer.

"It is the invention of certain semi-mad women of the intellectual type," he continues, "aided and abetted by some distinguished literary men who have got rather adrift from human nature and somewhat entangled in the meshes of their own distinction as psychologists. The only sex warfare I know of is in the realms of morbid pathology.

"But if there is no such thing as sex warfare, how do you explain the progress of women as against men the antagonism of magistrates to women jurors and all the various sex skirmishes so frequently discussed?

"The real warfare is not a sex warfare at all. The warfare is between two opposite camps in both of which there are men and women who hold one view about the relations of man to woman, and in the other there are men and women who hold a directly opposite view. The battle is between two mutually destructive and antagonistic points of view, each of which is held by both men and women.

Two Different Ideas

"What are these two points of view?

"The old is: There are not two equal sexes at all. There is one sex and a second sex. There is man and woman. Woman is the underdog. Woman is the inferior being—the doer of certain necessary work in the world, it is true, but still the inferior being.

"The other point of view is totally different. It is: The two sexes are absolutely equal in importance. Man is no more superior to woman than woman is to man. Man and woman are equal comrades. The subservience of woman to man is a gigantic error.

"Between these two points of view there is war to the knife without quarter.

"It may be right that woman can do her necessary work best in a sheltered position, protected by the chivalry of man and provided for by his generosity. It may be right, but I think it is wrong. Time will show.

For 'New Woman'

"I believe in the new woman of the new world. I do not believe in St. Paul's idea of the position of women any more than I believe in Henry the Eighth's idea. Both these men lived in their own particular century. I live in mine. They were both competent.

"Not only does the world go round, but it progresses. It is much more satisfactory to have woman a co-equal, a co-sharer of responsibility and a co-enjoyer of the co-enjoyed joys of life than as a possibly willing, but frequently unwilling and secretly but actively rebellious partner of one's joys and sorrows.

THEATRE MANAGER IS TRANSFERRED

Glendale Loses Ralph Allan Who Makes Big Success Of T. D. & L. House

Glendale loses Ralph Allan as manager of the T. D. & L. playhouse.

After sixteen months' success here he is being transferred to the DeLuxe theatre in Los Angeles.

This is not at his request, however, for the T. D. & L. management believes he is the one responsible for the unusual success enjoyed by the DeLuxe prior to sending Mr. Allan to Glendale.

Perhaps he may be returned to Glendale. At any rate he is going to continue living here and buying here, and wishes he worked here.

The T. D. & L. has enjoyed a remarkable patronage during Mr. Allan's regime because the public learned it could rely on his personal guarantee of a show. His advertising always was truthful, his courtesy to playgoers noteworthy and his faithfulness to his business such as seldom exhibited.

BAROMETER OF SCOUT BUDGET DRIVE RISES TO $4000 MARK

Urgency for Funds for Training of Boys Stressed by Luncheon Speakers

THE Boy Scout budget barometer rose to approximately $4000, as a result of reports turned in to Col. James W. Everington at yesterday's noon luncheon of the Glendale Rotary Club, in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Addressing the Rotarians, together with visiting Kiwanians, Exchangeites and Scout workers co-operating on this drive, President Roy L. Kent stressed the urgency of the need for funds to carry on this vital work of training our youth into manly and useful citizenship.

"On my honor, I will do my best," says every Boy Scout of America, when he takes his oath of allegiance, "First, to do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law; second, to help other people at all times; and third, to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

Can any citizen with the best interests of his country's future at heart, ignore or under-contribute to a budget which has for its one and only purpose the enrollment and development of more and more boys who will take that oath?

President Kent put this thought in his hearers' minds, then followed it up with another thought equally significant, using the teams canvassing the city to impress upon each individual approached the fact that this is a day-by-day and month-by-month, continuous need, and that, in making their donations, they should remember there are there hundred and sixty-five days in a year.

Two-Year Budget

"We are asking of the public funds to maintain this movement not for one day or one week or one month, but for one year—yes, and for two years. Everyone, after estimating what he can afford to give, should divide it by the number of days in one year, and in two years. After this has been done, the citizens who have our boys' and our country's future at heart—and who has not?—will reconsider and raise the ante.

"There are a certain number of 'sideliners' in every community," continued President Kent, "citizens, who, for one reason or another, are willing to stand and watch the parade go by. Now, if we were all sideliners, there wouldn't be any parade. I want to send out a special appeal to those citizens to get into the parade. We want them and need them—and most of all, the boys need them."

Harry Webb, who recently returned from a five weeks' trip to Chicago, New York and other eastern points, followed President Kent with a short talk on some of his Rotarian experiences, pointing out that the Rotary club of New York cares for over 2000 delinquent boys annually.

Mr. Webb stated that he returned to southern California more than ever sold on it, and that he found everywhere he went that eastern people generally are sold on it and look westward with eager eyes, anxious for the day to come when they can make the trip, either to visit or to stay—and facts prove that a heavy percentage of visitors "stick" or come back.

D. W. Pollard, field representative of the Boy Scouts, spoke briefly on the drive to date, expressing his confidence that such a progressive city as Glendale would be able to surpass the record of Santa Barbara, where a record drive was recently put over.

It was brought out that $1300 of the $4000 already raised had been obtained through the efforts of the Rotary club.

The club entertained the following guests at yesterday's session: Col. James W. Everington, William E. Sawyer, Clarence E. Kimlin, Ed. N. Radke, R. W. Jessup, Warren Z. Newton, F. E. Hoyt, C. C. Coghlin, Dr. W. H. Appleton, Welles C. Waring, Dr. James Belyea, John Camphouse, D. W. Pollard and Harold F. Benner.

In addition, the following visiting Rotarians were present: Charles H. Bowen, Olympia, Wash.; J. Will Johnson, Pueblo, Colo.; Fred M. De Riemer, Spokane, Wash., and W. Thorn, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Canada.

All men are courageous to think that the other fellow should bear his troubles without whining.

Artistic temperament seems to have much in common with an aversion to work.

Hist! Here's Deep, Dark Mystery in R. Downing's Life

RUIE DOWNING, of Downing & Cox, nurserymen, 118 South Brand boulevard, admitted at yesterday's Rotary club luncheon, in response to a call from the chair for his autobiography, that his life contained a dark mystery—and forthwith laid it before the club for solution.

"The family Bible gives the date of my birth as June 20," Ruie deposed and said, "whereas my mother was always firm on June 22. Now I was brought up to believe both, so I have two birthdays a year."

Which the club agreed was pretty soft.

In a further deposition the same individual named the place of his birth as Blackjack Grove, Texas, and stated that his first job was handling explosives for a railroad.

Failure to find "Blackjack Grove" among the sections where people congregate in that sizable piece of rattlesnake pasturage, tends to undermine the whole story.

The club, moreover, was of an opinion that Ruie didn't look tough enough to have hailed from a town like that and to have written his A, B, C's with sticks of dynamite.

TROOP 3 SCOUTS PICK NEW CHIEF

W. L. Walker Is Appointed Scoutmaster in Place Of C. H. Kirkman

The Boy Scouts of Troop No. 3, Glendale, are to have a new scoutmaster, according to an announcement this morning by Frank C. Ayars, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce troop committee.

W. L. Walker of 321 Stocker street has been selected to succeed Carl H. Kirkman, resigned. Mr. Walker is well qualified to lead the boys. Although he has had no previous experience in Scouting he has the first essentials for good leadership of boys, and that is, a genuine interest in their welfare. Mr. Walker has a Sunday school class at the Episcopal church and is also interested in the Order of Sir Galahad.

Tonight the Scouts of this troop are urged to be out 100 per cent. The meeting will be held at the Central avenue school, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Plans are under way to procure a meeting place more centrally located and it is hoped in the near future to have this plan realized.

Bridegroom in Jail, Wedding Called Off

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Society circles today were discussing what might have been an additional reason why the marriage of Miss Louise Kidson, socially prominent, to Harry C. Toms of Minneapolis was hastily postponed last Saturday evening one hour before the hour set for the ceremony.

Miss Kidson received a special delivery letter from her fiance, saying his mother had died and that he was leaving for home immediately.

It developed today Toms is in the city jail held on a charge which the federal authorities declined to explain. He was arrested at San Diego Wednesday night and booked "charged with robbing the mails."

Heroes of U. S. S. Maine Honored by Comrades

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Simple ceremonies at Fort Meyer, Va., and Arlington national cemetery, marked the memorial serives for the 168 men who lost their lives when the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor twenty-five years ago yesterday.

The ceremonies, under the auspices of the Spanish war veterans, consisted of music by the marine band and eulogies of the Maine victims. The principal speaker was Representative Richard Yates of Illinois.

Wreaths from President Harding, the Cuban government and veterans' organzatons were placed at the foot of the Maine memorial shaft. Hundreds of persons braved the gale-like winds to attend the exercises.

SPORTS

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Jess Willard's demise as an eligible contender for the world's heavyweight championship will go down in the unwritten records as a case of willful self-destruction. He died, figuratively speaking, by his own hand, and none other's.

Ill-equipped to plan a logical course or badly advised by others, he steadfastly declined to meet any man other than Dempsey, thus laying himself open to the charge of seeking money rather than glory. That was tactical suicide. Without further preamble newspaper critics climbed aboard the fat person from Kansas, and by incessant hammering, so reduced him in public esteem as to make a Dempsey-Willard match a financial impossibility.

After the newspapers completed their indictment a Dempsey-Willard bout, at the necessarily high price per ticket, wouldn't have drawn ushers.

Personally we feel that these critics may have been a bit premature in their condemnation. It is barely possible that physical laws, by which other men may be judged, do not apply to Willard, who, for all of his age and ring rustiness, remains an impressive figure. He might have made some of the dissenters look very foolish.

However, that is beside the point. They were willing to be shown, and he refused to show them. Therefore those who had the interests of boxing at heart were eminently justified in decrying the situation. Had Willard been pushed over by Dmpsey in a couple of punches boxing would have been done an irremediable injury.

Jack Kearns, who had more than an academic interest in Willard's attempted come back, has become one of Willard's severest critics since the showdown, following Rickard's withdrawal from the transaction.

"I have no sympathy for Willard," he said some days ago. "He has only himself to blame for being barred here and in New Jersey. I tried to tell him that he would have to meet another heavyweight if he wanted to make himself a lifesized challenger for the championship, but he wouldn't listen. If only for his own sake, a preliminary bout would have been his logical course. I know I wouldn't want to meet a champion after four years of idleness without getting at least one real workout under my belt."

The worthy Mr. Kearns speaks the words of wisdom. That they fell upon deaf ears is due to the fact that Willard either is most obstinate or a very mercenary individual. You can judge for yourself by the following:

He arrived in New York around the first of the year, breathing defiance to Dempsey and the world in general. Asked whether he would be willing to meet one of the leading heavyweights as a 'convincer" before tackling Dempsey, he intimated that he would. On the strength of this he was tendered a tremendous ovation as he stepped into the ring at Madison Square Garden, indicating that he had the public with him at that time.

Some days later Ray Archer, his business manager, told the writer that Willard would dispose of the clamor for an official try-out by meeting Brennan, Gibbons, Johnson and others in training-camp exhibitions. This was the first intimation that Willard intended to ignore all demands for what newspaper writers saw fit to characterize as the "protection of the public."

Later he was offered what amounted to a guarantee of $25,000 to meet Floyd Johnson, a comparative novice, in a bout for the milk fund. He gave his tempter the impression of politely listening to something that failed to interest him. He declined. From that moment began the death-rattle of Jess Willard's ambition to participate in another bout for the heavyweight championship.

PLAN TITLE BOUT AT BUENOS AIRES

Dempsey May Meet Firpo in Argentine Capital in Million Dollar Brawl

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Plans to have Jack Dempsey toss Luis Firpo on his Latin shoulder blades in Buenos Aires next summer, far from the edicts and cancellations of William the Muldoon, are said to have crystallized in the report of an offer of $1,000,000 to Dempsey for his part in the transaction. It is reported the Kearns-Dempsey interests have been guaranteed this sum, over and above training expenses and in consequence are disposed to give Wills, Willard, Johnson and others the how-do-you-do, until further notice.

Firpo, it seems, is to make one appearance in this country and then remove himself with all seemly haste from the range of other American heavyweights who might prove a bit unclubby. He is to meet Bill Brennan March 12 and it is possible Bill may be persuaded not to be rough.

Rickard Is Promoter

Tex Rickard is to promote the Buenos Aires enterprise. He has been given to understand that the bout will draw more than $2,000,000, the largest gate in the history of boxing, and, quite naturally, he is interested. So also is Jack Kearns, who never saw a million dollars in one pile and being as it is to be his own personal million, is inclined to be just the least bit favorable in his attitude. A vision of the additional revenue to be derived from charging the Argentines so much a look while Dempsey is going through his training ritual is not unattractive, either.

They are wild about boxing in the Argentine, where the sport is still a novelty and anything seems to go. Firpo, a popular hero, who is hailed there as "the coming champion of the world, "need only get a decision over Brennan to convince his countrymen that he is the greatest thing that ever occurred.

Roland Todd Seeks To Meet U. S. Boxers

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Roland Todd, who regained his title as European middleweight champion, when he defeated Ted "Kid" Lewis in a twenty round bout last night, already is planning a trip to America to meet the best fighters in the United States.

In regaining his title, Todd staged a come-back. Lewis had previously defeated him, but many in the audience at that time thought Todd at least earned a draw. In last night's bout, Todd had all the better of the fighting in the last half of the bout, Lewis making his best showing in the first ten rounds. Lewis was badly battered in the last few rounds.

English fight experts look upon Todd as the best fighter England has produced in twenty years.

Joe Mondt Is Easy For 'Strangler' Lewis

KANSAS CITY, MO., Feb. 16.—Ten thousand fans here last night saw "Strangler" Lewis blast the hopes of "Toots" Joe Mondt for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world in a spectacular match. The Colorado cowboy gained the first fall after two hours of grappling but the second fall was easy for Lewis, who in less than an hour put Mondt's shoulders to the mat. In the third fall Lewis used a toe hold which downed his opponent in less than ten minutes.

SPORTS CHATTER

At the indoor meet at New York last month, Leroy Brown of Dartmouth and Dick Landon of the New York A. C. tied in the running high jump at 6 feet 5¼ inches, this establishing a new world's indoor record. The performance of these two athletes has brought forth a request from a track "fan" for the history of high jumping records.

The earliest recognized record for the running high jump that was listed by the English A. A. U. is 5 feet 11 inches made by one E. Vardy at Alnwick, England August 27, 1859. From that date until 1887 the world record was held by Englishmen, but in 1887 W. B. Page of the University of Pennsylvania went to England and jumped 6 ft. 3¼ inches and a few weeks later on his return to this country raised this record to 6 feet 4 inches and since that time the record has been kept in the United States. Herewith is the history of the running high jump record, taken from old time official athletic books:

Year	Ft.	Ins.	Record holder
1859	5	11	E. Hardy (England).
1874	5	11	M. J. Brooks, Oxford University.
1875	5	11	N. G. Glazebrook, Oxford University
1876	6		M. J. Brooks, Oxford University.
1876	6	2 1-2	M. J. Brooks, Oxford University
1880	6	2 3-4	P. Davin, Ireland
1887	6	3 1-4	W. B. Pago, U. of Penn in England
1887	6	4	W. B. Page, U. of Penn in U. S.
1890	6	5 3-8	G. W. Rowden, English champion at London, was not officially recognized.
1895	6	5 5-8	M. F. Sweeney New York.
1912	6	7	G. Horine, Stanford University at Palo Alto.
1914	6	7 5-16	E. Beeson, U. of Cal. at Berkeley, Calif.

History of the early day high jump records is interesting and shows that in sixty-four years from 1859 to 1923 8 5-16 inches has been added to the original record. There are various authorities on old time sports, particularly so in England and we find in one of them relative to the mark of 5 ft. 11 inches by Glazebrook's of Oxford when he tied the record. "Glazebrook's 5 ft. 11 inches was a rather doubtful record as he knocked the bar pretty heavily, but without bringing it to the ground."

M. J. Brooks of Oxford University is officially the first man in the world to jump an even six feet. When he did this in 1876 breaking his own former world mark by one inch, a critic of the day reporting the meet said "It had been considered an impossible feat to jump 6 feet and the excitement at the performance was very great."

Just a few days later the same Brooks raised the record to 6 ft. 2 1-2 inches and the skepties got busy and cast doubts on the performance. One of the most skeptical of the skeptics was Donald Dinnie at that time unquestionably the world's greatest professional athlete and looked up to as an authority on all sports. He wrote the papers "Such a feat is a physical impossibility." However the English athletic Union officials had seen and measured the jump and passed it. It stood for four years when Davin of Ireland broke it by one quarter of an inch.

The record made by the Irish athlete Davin, stood the tests of both English and American jumpers until 1887 or a period of seven years. Then the United States produced the greatest jumper of the day and W. B. Page of the University of Pennsylvania, thrice United States National high jump champion, 1885, 1886 and 1887, went to England to meet the British champion G. W. Rowden, whom Page had tied with once and then beaten in a meet in London actually jumped 6 feet 5 3-8 inches but the record was not allowed by the English officials.

The period from 1887 to 1895 produced a number of high class jumpers and in 1892 M. F. Sweeney won his first American nigh jump title with an even 6 feet. From 1892 to 1895 inclusive Sweeney won the national title and it was on September 21, 1895 at Manhattan Field, New York that Sweeney made his almost unbelievable mark of 6 feet 5 5-8 inches that stood all attacks for seventeen years until George Horine of Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif. jumped 6 feet 7 inches for the new record.

The performance and form of Horine started a revolution in high jump methods the world over. During his college career Horine had always had a deadly opponent in Eddie Beeson of the University of California. Beeson and Horine adopted the same "form" and two years after Horine made his record the pair met in the district championship of the A. A. U. on the Pacific coast and Beeson scaled 6 feet 7 5-16 inches, beating Horine and relieving him of the world record.

Now the present generation of jumpers are scaling dizzy heights and the jump of 6 feet 5 1-4 inches indoors off a board take off is a performance that speaks for itself. The jumpers of today are far ahead of the men of fifty and sixty and even less years ago, but the improvement and general raising of the record have come from a study of "form" and technique of jumping and not from any physical qualifications of today's men over those of yesteryear. Technical study of jumping, study of "form" and training methods are responsible for the advancement of not only the high jump record but of practically every record on the books today.

SAVING GAS BY CORRECT SPARK TIMING

The Utmost Practicable Advance Secures the Highest Fuel Efficiency

There is little likelihood of a car's being run habitually with an overadvanced spark, as the engine gives notice of the fact by knocking persistently, but there is greater probability that late ignition may be tolerated for long periods, because the signs of it are not so distinct. When ignition comes too late, power is diminished and fuel wasted because the piston is not acted upon by the charge at its instant of greatest pressure and is acted upon for less than the normal proportion of the working stroke. It is always possible that an engine's ignition may have been timed too late by whoever set the ignition cam and this defect may not be realized at once, by the average operator, as the resulting overheating, low power and high gasoline consumption may be laid to other causes. It also sometimes happens that the ignition cam slips on its shaft or, if a chain drive is used, that the chain becomes very slack, both of which occurrences may produce overlate ignition. When an engine is badly carbonized, has too high compression for the fuel it is using or has looseness in its moving parts, it is very likely to knock, especially when heavily loaded, and some of this knocking can usually be stopped or at least reduced by retarding the ignition. Under these circumstances the operator is likely to set the spark lever in a very late position and leave it there, where the engine runs most quietly, not realizing that this entails a large waste of fuel. Low fuel economy, in ill-conditioned engines, is very often advanced. To secure maximum fuel economy the utmost advance should be used that can be maintained without making the engine knock or click, the setting being made when the cylinders are free from carbon, the mixture properly adjusted and mechanical parts in good adjustment. If later, the engine begins to knock, something other than the ignition setting is presumably the cause.

ENGINE WASTES OIL

J. B. G. writes: The engine of my ——— car smokes very badly and uses nearly a gallon of oil in running the car 100 miles. Its piston-rings are all new, the engine has good compression and pumping and, considering your good compression and more than average fuel economy, it seems as if the ring fit must be good and not blamable for this excessive oil the car makes 21 miles per gallon of gasoline. What causes this waste of oil?

Answer: This make of engine usually gives no trouble from oil consumption. It is possible that your trouble is that the cylinder walls receive an abnormal amount of oil-splash—more than the rings can wipe down—and this may be because the oil level, for some reason, runs much higher than it should, high enough, perhaps, so that the splash-pan is flooded whether the pump is running or not. Your gauge may possibly be out of order and registering a falsely low level. No more than six quarts should be in the system at once and, if you find this amount exceeded, it may account for your trouble. Are you sure there is no oil leak at the oil-pan gasket, around the crank-shaft bearing or elsewhere?

SPARK INTENSIFIERS ONCE MORE

T. H. asks: Will the use of spark intensifying devices, such as the ——— transformers, on the engine of my Ford truck, result in its giving more power and consuming less gasoline?

Answer: We presume that this device is one of those which cause the sparking current to pass through a small spark gap, in series with the one between the points of the plug. This being the case, we cannot conscientiously encourage you in the belief that it would accomplish the beneficial results above referred to.

intensifiers of this type will often cause fouled plugs to spark effectively, when without them they would fail to spark, through shoft-circuiting and, in case an engine is missing explosions, on account of dirty plugs, intensifiers may be expected to increase power and decrease fuel consumption, insofar as they prevent missing. In the case of an engine that is igniting regularly, no data have ever come to our knowledge to the effect that the use of intensifiers increases the output or reduces fuel consumption.

SCOUT CAMPAIGN TEAMS ARE BUSY

Donations to Budget May Be Mailed Direct to Treasurer Kent

It has been called to the attention of the Boy Scout campaign workers that there are hundreds of people in Glendale who are eager to help boost the Boy Scouts by giving of their means to help make the campaign a success. Most of these people have been waiting for one of the teams to call on them, but, as it will be impossible for the men on the teams to reach more than one thirtieth of the city's population, those who have not been interviewed already are urged to send in their subscription at once to the following address: Roy L. Kent, treasurer, 130 South Brand boulevard.

"It is very important that this campaign be brought to a successful end by Saturday," declared Dr. E. H. Parker, campaign chairman, this morning. "The Rotary, Kiwanis and Exchange clubs must make a big final effort today and Saturday to make the thermometer boil over. They all voted unanimously to get behind this Boy Scout campaign 100 per cent and I can hardly feel that they will permit it to close without reaching their goal," Dr. Parker added.

Tujunga Will Have Its Tenth Birthday St. Patrick's Day

TUJUNGA will celebrate its tenth birthday on St. Patrick's Day.

An appropriate celebration to mark the first decade is being considered by citizens of this community who are said to be quite "elevated" at the prospect.

March 17, 1913, the townsite was opened and the first lots sold. Sunset boulevard at that time was only a passage hewn through the brush and was impassable for vehicles.

People, who came to look at the property, had to walk up the hill through sand and boulders.

The village of Tujunga is the result of their faith.

And so it is fitting that Tujunga, growing fast, should celebrate.

The Moon Festival association of Tujunga is now searching for an original idea which could be worked out in a pageant or fiesta.

There are so many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran—the one great aid to humanity!

You will enjoy eating Kellogg's Bran because its nut-like flavor appeals to the taste. And, think what each mouthful is doing to drive constipation out of your system and to re-establish health! That's because it is ALL BRAN. Kellogg's Bran is scientifically made to relieve suffering humanity—IT WILL DO THAT AS NO OTHER FOOD CAN!

Physicians recommend the regular use of Kellogg's Bran for mild or chronic cases and as a preventive. Bran, eaten each day and in proper quantity, sweeps, cleanses and purifies the alimentary tract.

Get away from pills and cathartics—Kellogg's Bran will give you permanent relief from constipation.

Do not confuse Kellogg's Bran with common bran. Kellogg's is cooked, krumbled and ready to serve. It can be used in the most delightful baking products without in any way reducing its regulatory value. Try raisin bread or muffins or griddle-cakes made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

Kellogg's Bran is nationally eaten for health's sake as a cereal—in winter time with hot milk. Others prefer it sprinkled over hot or cold cereals. Another way is to mix it with hot cereals just before serving. It can also be cooked with cereal. In each case add two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's Bran for each person; in chronic cases as much with each meal.

Kellogg's Bran is sold by all grocers and is supplied in individual packages at first-class hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant!

MEMBERS SOUGHT FOR U. S. LIBRARY

Paris Institution Anxious to Increase List of Names On Roll

By ALICE LANGELIER
For International News Service

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The American Library Association in Paris is calling for more new members.

All told there are but 310 actual members, although there are more than 3000 French, English and Americans who take out books and have the advantage of the fine reading rooms which overlook the gardens of the Elysee palace. In view of the fact that the American colony of Paris counts at least 5000 permanent residents, this membership number is extremely small.

One hundred francs (less than $10) is the first price, together with an entrance fee of 100 francs. Life members pay 5000 francs and [illegible] 3000 francs. For twenty five francs a year any resident of Paris and its suburbs, with no regard for nationality, may take out one book at a time, with the right to change it as often as he desires.

The American Library and Reading Rooms occupy the old Nunciate, one of the most handsome palaces in Paris. There are spacious stockrooms, well lighted and heated, and the reading rooms are decorated with superb ceiling paintings and fine mirrors and chimneypieces. The children's room was formerly the Moorish room of the Nonce, and its delicate arches and tracery work still remain, a delight to the children who come in to sit around the tiny tables in miniature chairs.

A hotel room at a summer resort would be much like your room at home if it were ten degrees cooler.

WELFARE EXPERT SPEAKS AT CLUB

Juvenile Problems Related In Campaign to Halt Delinquency

Perhaps no one of those engaged in altruistic work has a more comprehensive view or a greater understanding of the problems confronting those engaged in child welfare work than Mrs. E. K. Foster, president of the Juvenile Protective Association, who was the speaker at the Thursday Afternoon Club at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Foster, as past president of the Friday Morning Club and past chairman of the Alliance of Social Agencies, which includes some 80 organizations interested in community needs, recognizing the need of an organization to deal with juvenile problems, and to do protective and preventive work for unfortunate children, who are neglected, abused or exposed to harmful influences, was one of the prime movers in the organization of the Juvenile Protective Association about twelve years ago.

Two Kinds of Work

At that time the juvenile court was regarded as a panacea for the evils which beset childhood, but experience taught that conditions back of the actual commission of crime must be changed.

The work for the prevention of juvenile delinquency calls for two distinct but closely related departments of activity, (1) case work and (2) condition work. In case work two paid workers are employed, beside the volunteer workers, to deal with the individual child or family. Condition work deals with the larger problems of community life, such as education, recreation and industrial conditions.

Duty of Mothers

A number of interesting cases were related. Emphasis was laid on the obligation of every mother not only to see that their own children but the community children, collectively, must be kept good.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. W. C. Mabry, who is ill, Mrs. E. V. Bacon, first vice president, presided. The minutes of two previous meetings were read by Miss Eva Daniels, secretary and approved. Invitations were read for reciprocity day at Echo Park club, Friday, February 16, and Arcadia women's club, February 28. Letters were read by Mrs. Roy Bancroft, corresponding secretary from the Misses Myers and Mrs. Mabry thanking the club for flowers and words of sympathy.

Committee Reports

Reports of the ways and means committee, Mrs. Bacon, chairman and of the treasurer, Mrs. S. E. Brown, were heard.

The card party which was to be held Saturday at Mrs. Mabry's was postponed indefinitely.

During the social hour, tea and home-made cake were served by hostesses for the day, Mesdames J. W. Femberton, A. J. Becker, F. A. Archer, Al. Vaulet, J. M. Server and A. L. Bancroft.

Secret Marks to Help Identify Stolen Cars

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Secret numbers placed on engines and concealed parts of automobiles by the manufacturers were the backbone of the attack opened by United States District Attorney Herron on Wallie Baecker, asserted head of an international gang of automobile thieves, when his trial started before Federal Judge Bledsoe on a charge of transporting four stolen machines from the east to Los Angeles. Photographs showing the purported hidden numbers were shown the jury.

Two witnesses from Detroit, E. S. Pfent and Charles C. Smith, testified they had identified cars stolen from them in the eastern city and brought here. Another witness, Dr. Wallace Barr of Bowling Green, Ky., said he did not know his machine as it was stolen two days after being purchased. A government witness testified one alleged stolen car was found in the possession of Miss Daisy Thomas, reputed sweetheart of Baecker.

Jap Immigration to U. S. Ended, Says Envoy

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—Immigration of Japanese labor to the United States is virtually at an end, Charles E. Warren, American ambassador to Japan declared, en route to Washington where he will tender his resignation to President Harding.

"The Japanese government knows that the United States does not relish Japanese immigration," said Ambassador Warren. "I told them so in as many words.

"I went to Tokio to aid in settling the far eastern problem, and now that it is concluded I am going to resign."

Ask $1,063,000 Loan To Rebuild Astoria

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. — A bill proposing a government loan of $1,063,000 to the city of Astoria, Ore., which was recently destroyed by fire, was introduced in the senate by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon. The loan would be spent in re-building the city.

Blame Criminality of Soldiers on Warfare

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 16.—More than a fifth of the ex-service men in Wisconsin prisons were made criminals by their war service, according to a report of a year's survey made to Governor John J. Blaine by Doctors W. F. Lorenz and W. S. Middleton.

Overseas these soldiers learned a disregard for property rights, the report says, where they were compelled often to take whatever they needed, regardless of ownership. The physicians reported finding a large number of imbeciles and morons.

The governor plans either to free some of the ex-service men or have them removed to institutions for the care of feeble minded.

James is alleged to be the "black sheep" of a prominent Tennessee family.

A Well-Kept House Is a Productive House

The house which is painted regularly and kept in good condition at all times is the house which pays best in the end.

First, the cost of painting is considerably less than that of making the repairs that become necessary when surfaces are left unprotected.

Secondly, the period of usefulness of a well-kept house is considerably longer than that of one which is neglected.

Thirdly, a house in good condition has a higher market value than one which has become shabby and dilapidated. Here you will find paint and varnish for all purposes.

Comes To America With Bride To Make Tour

Rev. H. R. L. Sheppard, with his wife, has arrived in America for a tour. He is the noted vicar of "St. Martin's in the Field," of Trafalgar Square, London. His church, during the thirteenth century, was located in the fields outside the walled city of London, hence its name. His father was Chaplain to the former Queen Victoria. "St. Martin's in the Field" is called "the poor man's place of worship," being open all day and night, and there are no fees.

MILLENNIUM NOW 50 YEARS AHEAD

Chicago Man Says Era of Science Will Eliminate Many Human Ills

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Streets in the air, with traffic regulated by air "cops" the same as the corner traffic man semaphores the automobile today; development of the radio to replace the telephone and telegraph; abandonment of railroad lines so far as passenger service is concerned, and realization of the city perfect are predicted as the development of the next fifty years in America by Alexander H. Revell, Chicago furniture dealer.

Streets in the air for airplane traffic will be indicated as clearly in the future as our surface streets now are, Revell predicts. The character of the buildings will have been changed to permit the landing of planes on roofs, he believes.

Autos Obsolete

"It will mean nothing at all for us to pick up our transmitter in 1973, tell our stenographer we will land in the office in our plane in a minute, and request her to be ready for dictation," Mr. Revell said.

"The automobile will be seen on the street as rarely as the horse is seen now. Airplane roadsters, touring cars and racers will not be unheard of, and speedways with airplane races are not an impossiblity.

"Chicago will be a great seaport with two routes of access to the sea. One will be through the St. Lawrence waterway and will connect Chicago with the Atlantic ocean; the other will be through the Illinois river and the drainage canal, down the Mississippi river to New Orleans."

Radium for Coal

Problems of various cities which are struggling to overcome the smoke nuisance will have been solved in fifty years by the substitution of electricity and radium for coal. Advancement in medicine will make it possible, Revell believes, to reduce crime to a minimum, not by reformation or punishment, but rather by the removal of incentive for wrongdoing.

This will be done by eliminating the congested tenement districts of the larger cities, and placing the child in an environment that will bring out latent talents. By the same method disease, insanity and vice will have been overcome, he believes.

Government business will progress, also, and will have become 100 per cent efficient, Revell declared, and mail service will be practically automatic and unbelievably rapid.

BISHOP DEFENDS DEATH SENTENCE

Clergyman Sees Revival of Old Protests Against Capital Penalty

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, Feb. 16. — Capital punishment has found a champion in Bishop Welldon.

Prejudice against capital punishment "is not a prejudice justified by reason," the Bishop declares.

Since the hanging of Mrs. Edith Thompson and Frederick Bywaters, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Thompson's husband, there has been a constant and growing agitation throughout England for the abolition of capital punishment.

"There seems to be an epidemic of crime," said Bishop Welldon in discussing the agitation which is going on. "It is probably due to the reaction of war. Society is bound to defend itself against malefactors. Old attacks upon capital punishment are being renewed, though the renewal is faint-hearted.

Penalty Deserved

"Looking at the most recent of all murders, I cannot escape the feeling that no punishment short of death would have satisfied the moral sense of righteousness in the heart of the nation. To take even a worse case, what other punishment could have proved even approximately equal to the crimes of a man like Landru?

"Moral indignation is a sound element in the life of the nation, nor can I doubt capital punishment acts as a deterrent to crime, not so much crimes committed under the sudden impulse of strong passion, but as making men and women hesitate before yielding to passions exciting them to murder.

Women Not Immune

"There has been a strong prejudice against the infliction of capital punishment upon women, but it is not a prejudice justified by reason.

"If women are capable of crime as bad as men the same punishment is due equally with men. They must be ready not only to enjoy the advantages but to accept the penalties of such equality."

Bishop Welldon's defense of capital punishment and particularly capital punishment for women, has caused a mild commotion in circles opposed to capital punishment, and numerous answers to his arguments have flooded the newspaper offices.

THEATRES

The GLENDALE

In "Life's Darn Funny," Viola Dana and Gareth Hughes romp away together through six delightful reels of fun and thrills. The picture comes from the Metro studios and bears the direction stamp of Dallas M. Fitzgerald, who has made many of this company's notable successes.

The story is an adaptation of "Caretakers Within," by Catherine Jope Slade, which ran in the Saturday Evening Post. It recounts how two young Bohemians whose souls are wrapped up in painting and in music find adventure and love, and in the end the prospect of a delightful cruise on the seas of matrimony.

The supporting cast includes Eva Gordon, Kathleen O'Conner and Mark Fenton.

The T. D. & L.

"Back Home and Broke," the Paramount release now showing with Thomas Meighan at the T. D. & L. Theatre, is wholesome, sparkling and censor-proof film entertainment.

George Ade, widely known laugh maker, perpetrated the story, which is rich in human interest. It is one of those sprightly tales that now takes a tug at the heart-strings, now yanks on the well-ropes of laughter, and keeps you generally in a delightful state of thrill and suspense.

The story leads you along with a young man who after suddenly dropping from wealth to poverty, goes away and gains riches, then comes back home pretending to be broke in pursuance of his long-anticipated plan of revenge.

"Hell!" exclaimed Byrne. "We gotta get out of this," and lifting his wounded comrade in his arms he ran for the shelter of the bluff from the summit of which the snipers had fired upon them. Close in, hugging the face of the perpendicular wall of tumbled rock and earth, they were out of range of the Indians; but Billy did not stop when he had reached temporary safety. Farther up toward the direction in which lay the village, and halfway up the side of the bluff Billy saw what he took to be excellent shelter. Here the face of the bluff was less steep and upon it lay a number of large boulders, while others protruded from the ground about them.

Toward these Billy made his way. The wounded man across his shoulder was suffering indescribable agonies; but he bit his lip and stifled the cries that each step his comrade took seemed to wrench from him, lest he attract the enemy to their position.

Above them all was silence, and yet Billy knew that alert, red foemen were creeping to the edge of the bluff in search of their prey. If he could but reach the shelter of the boulders before the Pimans discovered them!

The minutes that were consumed in covering the hundred yards seemed as many hours to Billy Byrne; but at last he dragged the fainting cowboy between two large boulders close under the edge of the bluff and found himself in a little, natural fortress, well adapted to defense.

From above they were protected from the fire of the Indians upon the bluff by the height of the boulder at the foot of which they lay, while another just in front hid them from possible marksmen across the canyon. Smaller rocks scattered about gave promise of shelter from flank fire, and as soon as he had deposited Eddie in the comparative safety of their retreat Byrne commenced forming a low breastwork upon the side facing the village—the direction they might naturally expect attack. This done he turned his attention to the opening upon the opposite side and soon had a similar defense constructed there, then he turned his attention to Eddie, though keeping a watchful eye upon both approaches to their stronghold.

The Kansan lay upon his side, moaning. Blood stained his lips and nostrils, and when Billy Byrne opened his shirt and found a gaping wound in his right breast he knew how serious was his companion's injury. As he felt Billy working over him the boy opened his eyes.

"Do you think I'm done for?" he asked in a tortured whisper.

"Nothin' doin'," lied Billy, cheerfully. "Just a scratch. You'll be all right in a day or two."

Eddie shook his head wearily. "I wish I could believe you," he said. "I ben figgerin' on goin' back to see maw. I ain't thought o' nothin' else since you told me 'bout how she missed me. I ken see her right now just like I was there. I'll bet she's scrubbin' the kitchen floor. Maw was always a-scrubbin' somethin'! Gee! but it's tough to cash in like this just when I was figgerin' on goin' home."

Billy couldn't think of anything to say. He turned to look up and down the canyon in search of the enemy.

"Home!" whispered Eddie. "Home!"

"Aw, shucks!" said Billy kindly. "You'll get home all right, kid. The boys must a-heard the shootin' an' they'll be along in no time. Then we'll clean up this bunch o' coons an' have you back to El Orobo an' nursed into shape in no time."

Eddie tried to smile as he looked up into the other's face. He reached a hand out and laid it on Billy's arm.

"You're all right, old man," he whispered. "I know you're lyin' an' so do you; but it makes me feel better anyway to have you say them things."

Billy felt as one who has been caught stealing from a blind man. The only adequate reply of which he could think was, "Aw, shucks!"

"Say," said Eddie after a moment's silence, "if you get out o' here an' ever go back to the States promise me you'll look up maw and paw an' tell 'em I was comin' home—to stay. Tell 'em I died decent, too, will you—died like paw was always a-tellin' me my granddad died, fightin' Injuns 'round Fort Dodge somewheres."

"Sure," said Billy; "I'll tell 'em! Gee! Look who's comin' here," and as he spoke he flattened himself to the ground just as a bullet pinged against the rock above his head and the report of a rifle sounded from up the canyon. "That guy almost got me. I'll have to be tendin' to business better'n this."

He drew himself slowly up upon his elbows, his carbine ready in his hand, and peered through a small aperture between two of the rocks which composed his breastwork. Then he stuck the muzzle of the weapon through, took aim and pulled the trigger.

"Didje get him?" asked Eddie.

"Yep," said Billie, and fired again. "Got that one too. Say, they're tough-lookin' guys; but I guess they won't come so fast next time. Those two were right in the open, workin' up to us on their bellies. They must a-thought we was sleepin'."

For an hour Billy neither saw nor heard any sign of the enemy, though several times he raised his hat above the breastwork upon the muzzle of his carbine to draw their fire.

It was mid-afternoon when the sound of distant rifle fire came faintly to the ears of the two men from somewhere far below them.

"The boys must be comin'," whispered Eddie Shorter, hopefully.

For half an hour the firing continued and then silence again fell upon the mountains. Eddie began to wander mentally. He talked much of Kansas and his old home, and many times he begged for water.

"Buck up, kid," said Billy; "the boys'll be along in a minute now an' then we'll get you all the water you want."

But the boys did not come. Billy was wondering if he could chance making a break for the valley where they stood some slight chance of meeting with their companions, and even as he considered the matter seriously there came a staccato report and Billy Byrne fell forward in a heap.

"God!" cried Eddie. "They got him now, they got him."

Byrne stirred and struggled to rise.

"Likell they got me," he said, and staggered to his knees.

Over the breastwork he saw a half-dozen Indians running rapidly toward the shelter—he saw them in a haze of red that was caused not by blood but by anger. With an oath Billy Byrne leaped to his feet. From his knees up his whole body was exposed to the enemy; but Billy cared not. He was in a berserker rage. Whipping his carbine to his shouler he let drive at the advancing Indians who were now beyond hope of cover. They must come on or be shot where they were, so they came on, yelling like devils and stopping momentarily to fire upon the rash white man who stood so perfect a target before them.

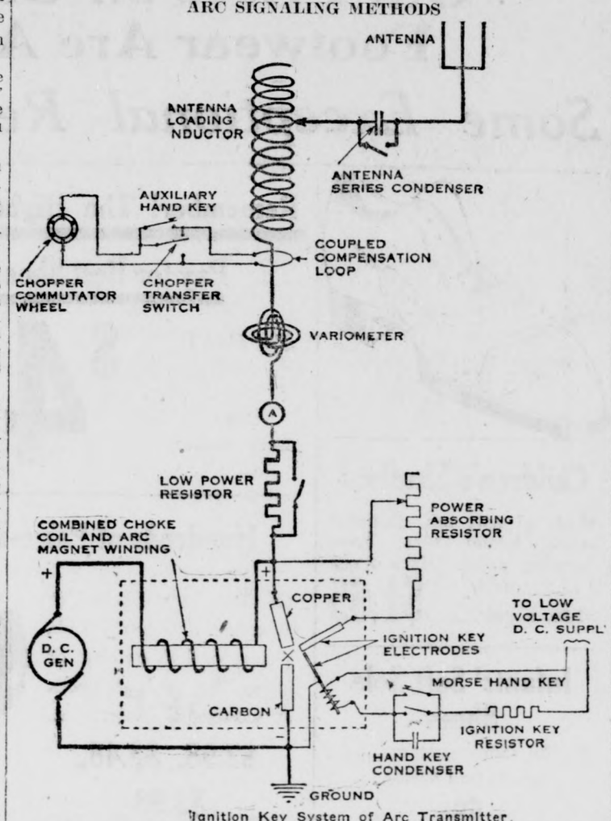
ARC SIGNALING METHODS



Ignition Key System of Arc Transmitter.

In the "ignition key" method of arc signaling, the arc is extinguished during the periods between the dots and dashes by shunting it with a resistance. The circuits for this system are outlined in the diagram accompanying this article.

When the contacts of the ignition key are open the arc oscillates upon the antenna in the usual manner. When the contacts of the ignition key are closed the arc becomes shunted by the power absorbing resistor, which extinguishes it and stops all flow of radio frequency current in the antenna circuit. The ignition key contacts are located within the arc chamber in close proximity to the electrodes of the arc flame. When the ignition key contacts are opened the flash which results is blown by the magnetic field into the gap between the carbon and copper electrodes and the arc flame becomes reignited. Current then flows in the antenna circuit. Signaling is therefore accomplished by alternately opening and closing the contacts of the ignition key and thereby alternately igniting and extinguishing the arc flame. Energy is radiated by the antenna at but a single wave length. This has important results in radio reception, preventing interference by the second wave which is emitted by other systems of signaling.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Feb. 16.—Stop bootlegging, go to jail or get out of Kansas.

That is the ultimatum that has passed down the line by Governor Jonathan M. Davis, Democrat, prohibitionist and self-styled "dirt farmer," executive of the Jayhawker State, to all gentry who, taking advantage of the so-called prohibition amendment to the United States constitution, have been making a living by supplying the wants of the thirsty whose wants do not run toward water.

Kansas, long before prohibition even one of the driest States in the Union, is going from now on to be dry in fact as well as name. Governor Davis has said so. From Topeka, the capital of the State, the word has gone forth that no further backsliding of Kansas on the liquor question will be tolerated, and instructions have been issued to the Attorney General to start proceedings against all county and State officials charged with enforcement of the liquor laws, who fail to do their duty. They are to be summarily ousted from office if they are derelict in enforcing the prohibition laws to the letter.

"You can say for me that the prohibitory law is going to be enforced in Kansas," said the Governor. "I am going to take it as a personal responsibility, and it will be enforced in every county and every city."

The campaign will be waged with particular severity in Topeka, the State capital. Here recently a prominent member of the Legislature committed suicide following an expose of his intoxication on liquor obtained from one of the bootleggers said to abound there in large numbers. This is believed to have been largely responsible for the Governor's drastic action.

On the theory, possibly, that prohibition, as well as charity, should begin at home, Governor Davis, in opening his campaign to dry up Kansas, has taken a leaf from the book of one William Jennings Bryan, well remembered as being the Democratic runner-up for President in three Presidential campaigns and more recently famous as a prohibitionist and an enemy of the Darwin theory of evolution.

Acting on a request from Bryan to the Governors of all the States, Governor Davis has placed in the Governor's office a handsome pledge book, in which all and sundry of the legislators, officers and citizens of the State of Kansas are asked to write their names, pledging themselves against any indulgence whatsoever for all time in intoxicating or spirituous liquors.

At the top of the first page of the book appears the following: "We, the undersigned, promise, God helping us, never to use intoxicating liquor as a beverage."

It is a fine leather, loose-leaf book, with several hundred pages of fine white paper. The Governor promises that when those pages are full he will get another book.

With reference to it Governor Davis said: "In the years since the war there has been a decided laxness of respect for and obedience to the prohibitory laws. It is so widespread and of such moment that President Harding could give it attention in his recent message to Congress. W. J. Bryan has instituted what may be known as a pledge movement. He is asking the Governors of the States to join him in opening a pledge book, to be used by State officials, members of the Legislature and all persons willing to join wherein they pledge themselves individually to abstain from the use of alcoholic liquors as a beverage. Visitors at the Capitol and State and county officials are cordially invited to visit the Governor's office and sign this pledge.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BAKED BEANS

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy was looking down inside the molasses jug. It was the same jug out of which Uncle Wiggily, the day before, had smeared himself with sticky stuff and scattered chickens' feathers on to fool the Bob Cat.

"What are you looking for, Nurse Jane?" asked the bunny gentleman. "Are you afraid some feathers are down in the molasses?"

"Oh, no," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzy, "I was just looking to see if there was enough molasses left to put in the baked beans."

"I never knew that you put molasses in baked beans," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes, indeed!" said Nurse Jane. "Baked beans wouldn't be right without molasses. But I think there is enough. I didn't use it all for a cake."

"Of course, I used some to make the chicken feathers stick on me," laughed Uncle Wiggily, as he thought of how he had fooled the Bob Cat. "But if there isn't enough for the beans I'll get more."

"There will be plenty," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. And she was just going to get the beans ready to bake when the telephone rang in the hollow stump bungalow.

"Hello! Hello!" answered Uncle Wiggily. Then when he had listened a moment he said: "They want you, Nurse Jane!"

"Yes, what is it?" asked the muskrat lady over the wire. "Oh, it's you, is it, Mrs. Wibblewobble? Yes—yes—of course! That's too bad! I'll be right over—yes—of course—Oh, I'm sure you do—Oh, yes, indeed! Um—yes—yes—I'll be right over."

"What's it all about?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for, of course, he could only hear what Nurse Jane said.

"Oh, that poor Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "she spilled some hot water on her foot as she was boiling eggs for Jimmie's breakfast, and she wants to know if I could come over and help her with the housewok until she can send for her sister, Mrs. Quack-Quack, to come and stay with her."

"Run right along!" said kind Uncle Wiggily. "We must always help those in trouble."

"But what about the baked beans?" asked Nurse Jane.

"They will do when you get back," said Uncle Wiggily. But when Nurse Jane had gone over to help Mrs. Wibblewobble, the bunny rabbit thought to himself: "I'll give Nurse Jane a joyful surprise. I'll bake the beans myself. There is molasses enough, she said, and I know where she keeps the beans. Yes, I'll bake them myself."

Uncle Wiggily got the dried beans from the pantry. He put a big pan of them in the oven, just as they were and poured some molasses over them. Then he put the pan of dried beans in the hot oven of the stove, and sat down to wait for them to bake.

Soon a queer smell filled the kitchen.

"That must be the molasses beans baking," thought the bunny. All of a sudden he heard a noise at the door. "Dear me! I hope that isn't Nurse Jane coming back so soon," he said to himself. "The surprise isn't ready yet. The beans aren't done."

He opened the door and in popped the Fuzzy Fox.

"Now for some ears to nibble!" howled the Fox. Then he began to sniff and snuff. "What's that smell?" he asked.

"Baked beans," answered Uncle Wiggily. "Maybe, Mr. Fox, if you ate some of my molasses baked beans you wouldn't want to nibble my ears."

"Let me see first," barked the Fox. He opened the oven door and then, all of a sudden, there were a lot of loud, bang-bang noises and out shot a lot of the hard, molasses beans right in the face of the Fox. They had burst and exploded, for Uncle Wiggily forgot to soak them in water before he baked them, as he should have done.

The beans flew out and hit him.

"Oh, baked beans! Oh, wow! Bullet beans, I call them!" howled the Fox. "Oh, double wow!" he cried as more beans flew out and hit him on the nose. Then he ran away and didn't come back that day.

"Ha! Ha!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, when Nurse Jane came home and cleaned up the burned beans, and told him he should have soaked them. "Ha! Ha! Well, I surprised the Fox, anyhow!"

"Indeed, you did!" chuckled Nurse Jane. "And it served him right, too!"

And if the gold fish doesnt throw water on the fire shovel and make it catch cold when it's playing tag with the ice box, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Wolf.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

SPARE THAT PAT

"Act well your fate, there all the honor lies, Honor and fame from no conditions rise."

Among my acquaintances are two brothers of whom the elder went directly to work from high school while the younger had the advantage of a college education.

As in many families the elder brother helped make this higher education possible for the younger, partly by removing the burden of his own support from the family finances and partly by gifts of money.

All that was some years ago. The point that interests me about the situation today is the younger man sometimes speaks slightingly of the older man's lack of interest in any kind of serious reading. "All he ever reads is a novel," he says, "try to get him to read a book on economics or psychology or government or anything serious and he isn't interested."

No Great Shakes Himself

Now, as I happen to know, the younger man is no great shakes of a reader himself. Once in awhile he reads a popular book of science or psychology and talks about it for the next month. When a widely read history of the world came out he bought it, read a few chapters and tried to make everyone who hadn't bought it, including his brother, feel as if they were culturally condemned. But when it comes right down to it, he doesn't go in for any regular serious reading, not half so much as you would think a man with a college background and education would.

And there is the nub of the whole matter.

He prides himself because he takes a little more interest in such matters as science and economics and government than his brother. But he doesn't really take as much more interest as he should by reason of the greater opportunity he had to get interested in such things, the greater background of understanding which his college course gave him.

He Ought To Be Ashamed

In other words, it is he who should be ashamed not his brother.

How easy it is to fall into the unreason of priding oneself on some superiority that is the result entirely of circumstances over which one had no control.

How often we may be looking down on people who, if they had had our initial advantages, would be far, far ahead of us.

It isn't whether he wins every hand that proves whether a man is a good card player, it's whether he plays the particular cards he happens to have as well as they can be played. And very few of us do.

Or Hasn't He?

Cannon Farrar says: "The only real failure possible is not to have done the best one knew."

I know a man who did not go to college, indeed did not even finish high school but by reading and studying and thinking he has developed himself mentally until he is better informed and far ahead intellectually of nine out of ten of the college students. He has some reason for pride (though even there you come back to the question of inherited intellectual equipment).

When you feel like patting yourself on the back for being ahead in one way or another of your fellow beings, stop first and ask yourself where they would be if they had had your advantages. Unless you are sure they would be behind you, spare that pat.

Pardoned Girl Slayer Will Aid Prisoners

She declares she will devote the balance of her life to welfare work and reform.

'Madonna of the Clouds' Is Presented by Artist to Sanitarium

Miss Sarah J. Eddy, a philanthropist and artist of Bristol Ferry, R. I., who is wintering in Pasadena this season, has given the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital one of her works of art entitled, "Madonna of the Clouds," showing the spirit of motherhood. Manager C. E. Kimlin personally hung the canvas in the parlor of the sanitarium where it is greatly admired by the patients.

Miss Eddy was accompanied to Glendale by Mrs. Archibald Fisher of 203 North Castle avenue, Eagle Rock, and several Pasadena friends. It is stated that the benefactress has endowed many institutions in her home state.

BEAUTY CHATS

by Edna Kent Forbes

HARMLESS HAIR CURLING

Artificial waving of the hair is never actually good for it and often harmful. But, if you are careful, you can keep a loose, natural looking curl most of the time without doing any appreciable damage. I never really advocate hair curling, because I know the average woman is apt to overdo it, either because she is afraid she won't be thorough enough, or with an idea of making the curl "stay."

I know there are times when a wave is almost a necessity — an evening affair when a woman wants to look extra well (most of the straight-haired ones look better so, if they only would believe it) after the hair is washed, if it belongs to the limp variety, and when traveling. I know a woman, too, who has a hair dresser come and wave her hair when she is ill in bed, she says she knows her face has a solemn expression then and she wants to counteract it as much as possible by the frivolity of waved locks!

The best way to wave the hair is to divide it into thin strands, and to moisten these slightly. Then roll each one tightly around a thick kid curler, purchasable in any notion department, or around a thick wad of tissue paper. Even a roll of old muslin will do, the ends in any case must tie or fasten together.

If you can do this at night it will give the hair plenty of time to set in a natural looking wave. If anyone is apt to see you, curlers being about the ugliest things in the world, wear a cap with a frill to conceal your head. Hot, but not too hot irons may be used now and then.

Bobby—The kid curlers are not causing your hair to split on the ends. There is some other reason for the trouble. Possibly your scalp is not secreting enough oil to keep the hair in condition. Trim off the broken ends and massage the scalp every day until you feel it tingle from the improved circulation. Your weight of 122 with a height of five feet, six inches is all right for a girl 19 years of age.

M. S.—It is unfortunate that the bones in the nose were not set at the time they were broken, but you can have them operated on even now and improve the shape of your nose. You could not gain anything by compression with any of these mechanical forms, but you have much to gain from a small surgical operation.

Have you ever noticed that all housekeepers can be divided into two great classes—those who find their work "drudgery," and those who have no complaints to make concerning it?

I have noticed that, and I've been making a study of these two great classes.

"Why are some women continually sorry for themselves because of their many duties, while others take their burdens as a matter of course?" I have asked myself again and again.

But now, after a long period of observation, I believe that I have the correct answer to this question. The woman who does not fret about her work, is invariably a woman who has an interest outside of that work.

Look about you and see if this is not true. The woman who has something outside of her housework, hasn't as much time to dwell on her cares as the one who does nothing but housework.

Take the case of Mrs. A., for instance. Mrs. A's outside interest is her chickens. The constant care of those hens, and the money derived from their eggs, provides Mrs. A. with an interest which, to her, is positively thrilling. She has no time to sit and mope over the ache in her back from ironing. Mercy no! It's time to feed the hens! Or it's time to gather the eggs!

Or observe the case of Mrs. B. who is interested in makng a hooked rug. She has sent away by mail for the particular kind of hook that is needed for the rug. Her husband has made her the wood frame for it. Now she is busily engaged in tacking denim strips along the frame—and soon she will be sewing the oblong piece of canvas to these strips, taut across the frame—and after that she will draw her design on the canvas and begin tearing rags into strips to hook through the canvas! Has she time to grumble that: "it's just a constant war against dust and dirt" or that: "it wouldn't be so bad if it had a vacuum cleaner?" I should say not. Complaints would take just so many minutes from the hooked rug work!

Of course I am not referring to the housekeeper who is ill or not strong. I am merely referring to the woman who is well and could fill her life with sunshine, rather than with gloom, if she would only hunt for a gripping interest.

Diet and Health

I, I, I: I, MYSELF, I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME

CHAPTER XLV

Rickets

Last week I announced to you that I was not going to have rickets and I know that made you Mamas all very happy. Not only because you love me but most of all because you love your own babies. You know that if my dear Mama's dear little baby doesn't have to have rickets, then your own dear little baby doesn't have to have rickets either.

I told you that I was getting cod liver oil, a teaspoonful twice a day after a morning and an afternoon feeding.

Dr. Alfred Hess of New York, who has probably studied this disease of babies more than any other doctor, says that babies can be given cod liver oil as early as the second month if it is begun in very small doses—not more than five drops a day, and increased one or two drops a day until the two or three teaspoofuls a day is given.

Cod liver oil is really not so much of a medicine as it is a food. It contains a large amount of the growth and anti-rachitic vitamins. (The technical name for rickets is rachitis.) These vitamins help the bones to get their normal amount of calcium and phosphorous in some way that is not thoroughly understood. However, we should worry if it is not thoroughly understood as long as it does the work. Don't you say so, Mamas?

Rickets is a very common disease of babyhood and while those of us who are getting our own mother's precious milk do not have it nearly so often as the poor little bottle-fed babies, still we do get it and that is why it is wise to have this cod liver oil given to us as a preventive.

When a baby develops rickets the bones do not get the hardening mineral elements they need and they stay soft and become thickened, especially at the epiphyses (the part at the end of the long bones.) The bones remain like cartilage—and you know what cartilage is and how easily it is bent. This bending may remain and then when the mineral elements are finally deposited, the bones are permanently deformed. The long bones are the arm bones and leg bones and the rib bones. The ribs toward the front side of the breast bone are liable to bend and buckle out a little and sort of little knobs form; the doctors call this the rachitic rosary.

The flat bones on the skull are also affected and the head of a rachitic baby is liable to be very large and boxy looking, not pretty. Of course, it is not their prettiness but their health that Mamas are so concerned with in their babies, and this disease affects their general health, too. And prettiness isn't to be lightly thought of either, especially in lady babies, they say. We men babies don't think so much of it, of course.

In rickets the muscles are very lax and flabby. That is one of the reasons why babies have what is called the "pot belly," because the abdominal muscles are relaxed and the weight of the abdominal organs makes the little bellies stick out too much. It is natural for all babies to have round and slightly prominent abdomens, but they are not normal when they are too prominent as they are in rickets.

Babies who get rickets are very fretful and restless, they tire easily and sweat easily, especially around the head and neck, during sleep. Digestion is weak and babies with rickets do have a hard time in general. They are also very liable to have bronchitis and chronic colds. Their mental development does not seem to be affected, that's one fortunate thing.

So you can see from my descriptions that it is a disease we babies do not want to get.

Next week I'll tell you about the sunlight treatment for rickets. Au revoir.

Dividends From Loan Associations Exempt

Under a ruling received yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell, an individual may exclude from gross income the dividends or interest received during the calendar year 1922 from a building and loan association to an amount not in excess of $300. The decision affects thousands of members of such organizations.

In order to show that the dividends and interest are exempt from tax the return must be supported by a statement from an officer of the association that it is operated exclusively for the purpose of making loans to members. Dividends distributed by building and loan associations in excess of $300 may be credited against net income for the purposes of normal tax, as in the case of dividends received from any other domestic corporation. Under no circumstances, however, may any part of the $300 which is excluded from gross income, be credited for normal tax purposes. Interest received from a domestic building and loan association in excess of $300 is subject to both normal tax and surtax.

WILL CELEBRATE CLUB'S BIRTHDAY

'In an Old Fashioned Garden' Will Be Presented by Music Section

The second anniversary of the Glendale Music club is to be celebrated tonight "In An Old-Fashioned Garden," when a charter night program will be presented by women of the Music Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club in the Glendale High school auditorium. In addition to being a celebration for the Music club, the affair will add a goodly sum to the treasury of the Tuesday Afternoon club Music section, which has pledged the $1200 or more to purchase a grand piano for the new club house.

The quaint sketch was presented at the charter day of the Tuesday Afternoon club in the fall and it has been elaborated for presentation tonight under the direction of Mrs. Warren Roberts, section curator. Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb is serving as accompanist.

Elaborate Costumes

For the production the high school stage has been attractively and artistically arranged and the members of the cast have secured some clever costumes.

It will be an evening with old-fashioned songs sung by Edith Rogers Arnold, Helen Graham Cole, Phoebe Armstrong Marlenee, Riffa Leighton, Florence Cowan Parker, Mildred Cowan Meadows, Helen E. McMullin, Lela Hogan Draper, Gladys Gibbs Sherman, Zetie Duncan Nash, Virginia Freeman. Dances will be given by Blossom Moore and Cecilia Mae Fischer of the Pearl Keller School of Dancing.

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones made this final announcement today, that senior members will be admitted upon showing season tickets or cards.

Further announcement is that the silver trophy cup will be awarded to the member securing the most new members over five by tonight.

HARROWER STAFF IS IN TRAINING

Members Shed Surplus Fat In Daily Exercises at Laboratory

A "daily dozen" is not enough exercise for the members of the Laboratory family, so now gossip has it that plans are being made for at least a daily gross of calisthenics.

A couple of days ago, an individual, whose name should not be mentioned, found that the business of lacing his shoes in the morning was becoming increasingly difficult because of a certain large annoyance known as avoirdupois. He had about decided to go to bed with his shoes on, when he happened to think of paging Walter Camp.

Meanwhile, some other members of the "family" became interested in the subject and a class was formed. This is now drilling every afternoon immediately after 5 o'clock. There is some talk of having a drill before 8 o'clock in the morning, too. There is even talk of having the one-two-three-four's at noon.

"No, I'm not getting better and better," remarked C. L. Cyphers, "but I am getting thinner and thinner."

Dr. Henry R. Harrower has now returned to England from Germany, according to information received by cable from James Howarth, manager of the Harrower Laboratory. It is understood that his new book on endocrinology is almost completed and will be published in London in the near future.

15-Year-Old Husband Is Sued for Divorce

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 16. — For the first time in the history of Michigan a 15-year-old husband is being sued for divorce and alimony. The plaintiff, Mary E. Chadwick, alleges that her youthful husband, James Albert Chadwick, abandoned her after telling her mother he intended to go back to school and make a man of himself.

They were married May 5, 1922. At the time of the marriage the youthful bridegroom and his bride were given a book on the beatitudes of married life. It was from this book, says Mrs. Chadwick, that her husband each day quoted the following excerpt to her:

"The husband must see that the early tender affection never fails; that the gentle tone of life's morning does not grow harsh. He must love his wife through all the avenues of life down through the declining age to the sunset years."

In August, 1922, James listened to the advice of his parents and left her without any means of support, according to Mrs. Chadwick.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Reapportionment Puzzle
Poilus Patrol Essen
Success Found Here
Glendale Famed for Cats

By Gil A. Cowan

REAPPORTIONMENT in California promises to be the biggest political issue ever faced by the Golden State. The north, which has not increased in population as rapidly as the south, denies representation guaranteed by the constitution to the newcomers.

In our humble opinion there is something radically wrong with the law regarding reapportionment, but beyond that there is something radically wrong with a representative when he fails to do his sworn duty. It seems that Southern California has about only one choice in the matter. Either it must accept the dictates of San Francisco or divide the state.

Speaker Frank F. Merriam of the assembly has painted opponents of reapportionment in strong terms. They oppose reapportionment from a different standpoint than we can learn to appreciate. If population were used as a basis their districts would cover several mountain ranges and a half dozen counties.

Why, some parts of Northern California don't have the population in a county to elect a constable. In one county the sheriff, judge, justice of the peace, and two or three other offices are held by one man. Yet they are going to hang onto what they got and aid San Francisco in defeating reapportionment in the legislature unless Governor Richardson intercedes.

With poilus patrolling Essen and 10,000 police in the Ruhr district disarmed the French invasion is slowly producing a state of civil war in Germany which will claim many lives.

It is a sad world, looking at the situation here, there and everywhere. Shipwrecked sailors dying in icy waters, homeless freezing to death in American cities, Europe soon reeking in blood, China in chaos. Such are scenes being enacted which no mortal can control.

Los Angeles shipyards have turned out the first ferryboat for the Bay district in the north. Wonder what some San Francisco boosters will have to say about that.

Los Angeles soon will be the industrial and shipping center of the Pacific coast, too. That is not a threat, but a promise, because if you knew conditions as they exist in the north with its radical foreign labor element the truth would be appalling.

No manufacturer can hope to succeed long where the money he pays out in wages is not invested in his own immediate vicinity. The Italians and Jugo-Slavs and Germans and the rest are sending their profits back to the old country.

When it comes to financing new industrials there is only one way out. The promoters have to come to Los Angeles and get the good people from the Mississippi valley and the east to divest themselves of their hard-earned dollars. While money is being brought here, it is being sent out of America in Northern California.

If anyone questions this, let them look into the postal and railway express money order reports.

Glendale is famous for its cats. Indeed, you need not go outside of this city to find the finest, as was conclusively proved by the Pacific Cat Fanciers' show at Pasadena this week.

All of the entries from here were awarded prizes, including several blue ribbons, according to the news account. Yet it was to be expected. In the issue of February 6 The Glendale Evening News forecasted the results.

An airplane in France yesterday flew 226 miles an hour. Comparatively stated, someday we may expect to fly from here to New York in the same time it now takes to motor to San Diego.

A discharged Chicago employe of several detective agencies, also at one time in the service of the department of justice, is making a series of sensational charges, but, like most such statements, they appear to be ridiculous fabrications.

Seaman Battles Gale To Rescue Comrades

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 16.—Swimming a mile with a line to the beach at Carmani, located 120 miles west of Victoria, A. Hogart, seaman, made possible the rescue of the entire crew of the ill-fated steamer, Santa Rita. The daring sailor braved death in a raging sea. One by one the thirty members of the crew were taken off on a breeches buoy.

Hogart was completely exhausted when he reached shore and it was some minutes before he could regain himself to further the work of rescuing of his mates. The Santa Rita, although badly pounded and lashed by the angry waters, can be saved if the weather moderates, reports here indicate.

First Engineer Marson of the vessel was slightly injured during the thrilling rescue.

It is rather fortunate that some people are bad enough to give good people something interesting to talk about.

CHANGES IN CITY CHARTER WILL BE UP TO VOTERS

Council Draws Amendments To Be Submitted at Election April 10

is made—and may make such assessments a lien on such property."

Salary Reductions

Permission for the council to hire employes for less than the maximum amount specified for the position under the salary ordinance is the subject of another amendment. Under the charter at present every time a new employe is added to the city payroll it is necessary to either pay him the same salary as his predecessor or amend the salary ordinance.

"The members of the council shall each be paid $10 for each meeting attended, but not exceeding six meetings in each month," is a provision of the charter which is not being changed. "The library trustees and board of education shall serve without compensation."

Increasing the petty cash fund from $100 to $500 is the purpose of another amendment. It has been found that the present arrangement is not adequate to meet the expenses of the expanding community.

Change In Time

The space of time between the introduction and passage of ordinary ordinances is reduced from seven to two days by another amendment. This will make it possible for ordinances to be introduced at Monday's sessions and passed at Thursday's session.

"In case of an extraordinary epidemic or any disaster such as floor, fire, or earthquake," it states, "an emergency ordinance may be introduced and passed without any intervention of time between its introduction and final passage.

"No penal ordinance or measure granting any franchise or privilege shall go into effect in less than thirty days after its final passage. All other ordinances passed by a four-fifths vote of the council may go into effect at the will of the council."

Filling Vacancies

How to fill vacancies in elective offices is the subject of another proposed charter amendment as follows: "Any member of the council, who is absent, shall forfeit his seat. Any vacancy occurring in the council shall be filled by a majority vote of remaining members of the council. Any vacancy occurring in the board of education shall be filled by a majority vote of the remaining members of the board of education. Any vacancy occurring in any other elective office shall be filled by a majority vote of the whole council. The successor of any person appointed to fill a vacancy shall be elected at the next general municipal election, providing there is sufficient time after the occurring of the vacancy to nominate."

Power of Council

All improvement work involving an expenditure of over $5,000, shall first be advertised, but, under the provision of another ordinance, the council may reject all bids and may re-advertise, or, if no bids are received, may declare that the work in question may be performed better or more economically by day labor or the materials or supplies purchased at a lower price in the open market and may proceed to have the work done. Nothing in this section shall require the care, repair or maintenance of streets or public utilities to be let by contract.

"In case of great emergency requiring immediate action, the council may, by a four-fifths vote, enter into any contract without advertisement or proceed to have any of said work done without letting the same by contract."

The final amendment releases the city attorney from the necessity of having been a qualified elector of Glendale for two years previous to his appointment, but specifies that he must be a qualified elector of Glendale at the time of his appointment and must have practiced law for the previous four years.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 16. — Bulgaria today furnished guarantees to the allies that reparations owed by this country would be paid.

Eats Two Dozen Fried Eggs and Slab of Ham

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich., Feb. 16.—Charles Smith, a lumberjack who towers six feet six inches in height, won a $100 bet that he could get away with two dozen fried eggs and a twelve-inch slice of ham at one sitting. In the presence of a large gathering Smith "licked the platter clean" in the twinkling of an eye.

After completing the feast Smith declared he had not been hungry enough to tackle a hearty meal when he sat down. He offered to wager an additional $200 that he could eat another dozen eggs, but no takers could be found.

Faulty Connection Is Cause of Police Alarm

BUCYRUS, O., Feb. 16.—"This is the sheriff. Can you send a man over right away? We had a fellow break out over here—"

The telephone connection in police headquarters went bad.

Night Patrolman John Kennedy, on the desk, was equal to the emergency, however. He hastily summoned the police in from their beats.

Then he got the sheriff's office on the line again and learned that the "fellow broke out with the measles, and we want someone to help separate the prisoners."

It must be remembered, however, that the contempt of the people for politicians is heartily reciprocated.

FERRY CO. PLANS TO SPAN STRAIT

Giant Suspension Bridge to Link Central and Northern California

VALLEJO, Feb. 16.—With all preliminary steps completed and the way cleared for the granting of the franchise, officials of the Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry company are perfecting plans for the world's largest suspension bridge, which will remove for all time the water barrier to the quick and easy communication between central and northern California.

The bridge will span Carquinez Straits, into which are discharged the waters of the Sacramento river.

The largest ferry boat in the world now plies the Sacramento river at Benicia, transporting Southern Pacific trains.

The approval of the state engineer to the plans of the company was granted recently. Before actual construction begins approval of the war department must be obtained, which in the absence of objection from the navigation companies probably will be granted within sixty days, according to the company engineers.

Under the terms of the franchise the bridge will be actually started within four months after it is approved by the war department and will be completed within two years from the beginning of construction. The company has posted a $50,000 bond to fulfill the terms of the franchise and, according to Aven J. Hanford, president of the concern, every endeavor will be made to complete the structure long before the limit set by the supervisors.

The bridge is located within a mile of the city limits of Vallejo.

Civilization has reached the point where almost any barber can bob a woman's hair without feeling self-conscious.

EPWORTH LEAGUE DELEGATES MEET

Organization's President to Be Honored Guest at Banquet Here

More than 200 young people, Epworth Leaguers, from Methodist churches from Redlands to Glendale, the territory included in the Pasadena Methodist district, are expected to gather tomorrow night at the First Methodist church for a 6:30 o'clock banquet and for a big rally with Dr. Charles E. Guthrie, national Epworth league president, as guest of honor and speaker.

There will be special music and Elwood Ingledue, president of the Epworth league of the First Methodist church of Glendale, will extend a greeting to all visitors.

It may yet become fashionable for the much divorced lady to list her six nicest husbands.

Another disadvantage about obeying the traffic laws is that it makes one so conspicuous.

Alleged Draft Dodger Fought in 4 Battles

MACON, Ga., Feb. 16.—Ernest W. Brown, a veteran of no less than four major engagements in the world war, wondered what it was all about when he was arrested here charged with being a draft evader.

Brown was called in July, 1917, but he wasn't exactly where he could hear the call. He was already a member of the Rainbow division and right at that time had other things on his mind.

He promptly told the detectives making the arrest he was well on his way to France when Crowder's clarion call sounded throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Brown was released when Major-General David C. Shanks, commanding the Fourth Corps area, paroled him in custody of the Joseph Neel post of the American Legion until a further investigation could be made.

At the same time, and acting on information obtained from the same circular on which Brown was taken into custody, the local authorities arrested Jess Kennedy, a negro, as a draft evader.

The negro advanced a "fair to middling" reason for not answering the call.

He has a wooden leg that he has had since 1909, he said.

Women of Present Year Must Be Long, Decree

LONDON, Feb. 16.—If Dame Fashion has her way Miss 1923 is going to be a "long woman."

Women who wish to be in the fashion this spring must use every artificial aid, from high-heel shoes to an elongated coiffure, to obtain the full street lamp post-like effect.

Every fashion feature has been introduced with the idea of making milady look as long and as thin as possible. Skirts are being made extremely long, flowing right on to the ground and having trains in many cases.

Dresses are being designed to be extraordinarily tight below the waist and show a pronounced tendency to merge into a long, deep "V." They have long sleeves, or no sleeves at all. Some have one sleeve, and the wearer leaves the other arm entirely bare.

To accentuate this vogue for length long earrings are being used, while shoes have long ornaments hanging from them.

Many Persons See Truck Driver Drown

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—Hundreds of persons witnessed the spectacular drowning of Peter J. Bolio, 30, driver of a truck, here this afternoon. The truck slipped backward on an icy incline, precipitating the driver, truck and two horses into the Chicago river.

COMMUNITY PLAY PROVES SUCCESS

Glendale Thespians Seen in Dramatic Offering at Local Theatre

Brilliant success was enjoyed last night by the Glendale Community Players in their first appearance before Glendalians, presenting "The Hand of the Prophet," a colorful Arabian love story, in the Glendale Theatre.

The regular theatre crowd was greatly augmented by friends of the players from Pasadena, Eagle Rock, Los Angeles, Hollywood, Glendale and other cities, and the unanimous compliment paid Mrs. Nanno Woods and the players on their accomplishment was justly deserved and fully repaid them for their weeks of work in preparation for the performance.

Dramatic Nucleus

The players' organization was one of the developments of the recent community service movement and the formation of this first theatrcal group will doubtless be the nucleus around which a large dramatic body will grow.

"The Hand of the Prophet" by Margaret Scott Oliver tells the story of the love of Halima, a beautiful Arabian girl, and Sindibad, a romantic young desert sheik.

A brilliant setting and colorful costumes were outstanding features of the presentation and Mrs. R. W. Meeker and her daughter, Miss Mildred, and their assistants on the costuming, and A. E. McCoubrey in charge of the stage arrangements, shared with Mrs. Woods and the players in the evening's success.

Miss Dorothy Woods portrayed the beautiful Arabian girl, whose marriage to the elderly Kodama, played by Clarence Edwards, was being celebrated. Nathan Dial was the handsome young sheik lover Sindibad. All three played their parts admirably, showing talented interpretation and expert direction.

It was the fourth day of the wedding festivities in the home of Halima in an Arabian city and a company of guests and attendants, dancing and singing girls, servants and slaves were gathered for the brilliant celebration.

In the characters of the two clever dancing girls Glendalians recognized Miss Kathleen Woods, talented daughter of Mrs. Nanno Woods, and Miss Dorothy Patterson. Miss Woods is a professional, and Glendale is always anticipating her appearance. She was recently greeted by her local friends in the Shrine Club show, "Smile Again." Last night she appeared in a striking black and silver Arabian costume, designed and made by herself for her two original Arabian dances. Miss Patterson is also a talented dancer and she appeared for her dances in a green costume.

Singer Makes Hit

Miss Almena Bullock has a most pleasing voice, which was unusually well adapted for the singing of the Arabian songs, which won her much applause.

The guests and attendants, servants and slaves lending Arabian color for the scene were: Margaret Kaeding, Elaine Buttrud, Nell Few, Mary Miller, Fernanda Pereira, Patsy Medyette, Ruth Spafford, and John Tunneson, Frank Bourne, Cyril Holway, Wayne Stinson, Irvin Carver, Dugald Blue and Irvin Bullock.

The theatre was secured through the courtesy of William A. Howe, manager. Furniture was loaned by the Page Furniture company.

Oriental music was played by Paul Carson, Glendale Theatre organist, and was one of the enjoyable parts of the sketch.

Flowers for Players

A pleasant compliment paid the players was a large basket of flowers brought by Mesadmes H. L. Perry and J. B. Squire with the compliments and good wishes of the Eagle Rock Community players.

Announcement on the program last night stated that the next production by the players will be "The Fun Revue," a musical comedy," a sure cure for the grouch, in three treatments."

Officers of the organization are Hugh Blue, president; Steven Huntington, first vice-president; Bernard Servetur Tweedale, second vice-president; L. W. Bradley, treasurer; Dorothy Morton, secretary; Dorothy Woods, wardrobe manager; A. E. McCoubrey, business manager; Mrs. Ralph Meeker, chairman of the art committee; Mrs. Nanno Woods, director.

Patrons of the players are Mesdames Charles Toll, John Robert White, Jr., W. Q. Widdows, Dan Campbell, Fannie Stockbridge, and Messrs. William Howe, Spencer Robinson, Dan Kelty, Jr., J. M. Rhoades, James Neill, Thomas D. Watson, Harry Girard and Ralph D. Allan.

Part of Utah Blown Across to Wyoming

LARAMIE, Wyo., Feb. 16. — Part of the state of Utah was blown over into the state of Wyoming during a recent gale in the vicinity of the border line between these two states, according to Professor Samuel Howell Knight, of the University of Wyoming.

Microscopic examination of the dust blown by the storm, according to Professor Knight, disclosed minute grains of quartz sand covered with a thin film of red iron oxide. No dust of this kind is natural to the soil of Wyoming, Professor Knight said.

Buildings in London Ugly, Declares Shaw

LONDON, Feb. 16.—George Bernard Shaw is on the warpath again. In a letter to the architect, the journal of the English Society of Architects, he thinks that London's buildings are very ugly, and suggests many improvements, one of which would be to remove the top story of the Houses of Parliament.

"The Houses of Parliament could be made almost presentable by removing the top story," he says.

"Why don't you send a competent young man around London to suggest improvements in existing ugly buildings, and to mark the hopeless ones for demolition?" he asks.

Clearing out from Westminster Abbey a lot of "ugly tombs" is another one of his suggestions for beautifying London.

Deaf Hear Voices by Radio Amplification

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16.—School authorities are preparing to install a permanent radio amplifier in the school for deaf children, following experiments just made. Florence Timmer, 17, deaf since birth, gave a cry of astonishment when placed before the amplifier and headphones placed to her ears as teachers talked to her. School authorities say it was the first sound she heard since birth. Other children also were tried in the same way and the experiment proved a success.
